Soviet Bid Puts Nuclear Test Ban Nearer Reality

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States, Britain and the Soviet Union appeared today to be closer to agreement on a nuclear weapons test ban than they have been at any time in almost two years.

Soviet Premier Khrushchev has removed a major barrier to serious negotiation by telling President Kennedy that he would accept two or three on-site inspections a year in the Soviet Union as part of a system to prevent cheating.

Reaction in the Senate, where a test ban pact would have to be approved, was heavily cautious. But the general feeling was that in accepting the principle of on-site inspection, Khrushchev's move was encouraging.

In an exchange of letters released here and in Moscow Sunday night, Kennedy told Khrushchev he was "encouraged that you are prepared to accept the principle of on-site inspections."

The State Department said the United States now hopes that discussions on the long deadlocked test ban issue "can be continued to a successful conclusion."

U.S. officials said Khrushchev's policy reversal could lead to a real breakthrough in the test ban negotiations. Whether it does will depend on whether Khrushchev is willing to increase the number of on-site inspections to double or triple the total he told Kennedy he would agree to at once—that is, two or three a year. The United States is asking for eight or 10.

Representatives of the three nuclear powers will reopen negotiations in a meeting here Tuesday afternoon.

The Kennedy-Khrushchev exchange covers three letters—one from Khrushchev Dec. 19, Kennedy's reply of Dec. 28, and a second Khrushchev message on Jan. 7.

Khrushchev reminded the President that they had agreed during the Cuban crisis to deal with the nuclear test problem at some later time. He said they had passed through the period of "utmost acuteness and tension" over Cuba and their hands were now untied "to engage closely in other urgent international matters."

While the Soviet leader thus linked his conciliatory move on nuclear testing to the U.S.-Soviet agreement on Cuba, officials here believe there is a strong possibility that Khrushchev is reconsidering his relations with the West in the light of his split with Communist China. If this is so, it could mean that he is entirely serious about putting an end to nuclear tests and would be prepared to make additiona' concessions.

At the United Nations, diplomats saw encouraging progress in Khrushchev's move, and in Britain a Foreign Office spokesman said: "This is obviously an important development, since in particular it accepts the principle of on-site inspection. But, as President Kennedy's answer shows, there are many problems still to be solved."

The reason Khrushchev offered Kennedy for his policy reversal was that he understood that Kennedy could not persuade the U.S. Senate to ratify a test ban treaty unless there was some provision for on-site inspections.

"If this is the only difficulty on the way to agreement," he wrote, "then for the noble and humane goal of ceasing nuclear weapon tests we are ready to meet you half way in this question."

Move Seen Best Way To Stem Slump

President Attempts To Allay Fears Of Administration Bid

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy told Congress today that cutting taxes, despite a huge deficit, is "the best way open to us to increase revenues."

Kennedy devoted the annual economic report, last of his three major messages to the new Congress, to allaying the fears of those legislators who called his fiscal program — the heaviest spending and biggest tax cut in history — "incredible," "a mistake", and "too big". In the process he revealed a few more details of the tax program he will send to Congress next Thursday.

If the country should slide into recession this year through failure to reduce taxes, the President said, the prospective $11.9-billion deficit would worsen and perhaps "break all peacetime deficit records."

By contrast, Kennedy predicted, the planned $13.5-billion tax reduction will add $8.5 billion a year to families' income, boost output of consumer items by $16 billion, increase profits, and encourage business investment.

He promised: "As the economy returns to full employment, the budget will return to constructive balance."

While urging tax reduction as insurance against recession, Kennedy did not predict a slump. On the contrary, he forecast "moderate expansion" in 1963 to a record $578 billion of national output, up 4½ per cent from last year.

Already, he reported, the recovery from the depth of recession 22 months ago has halted the postwar trend of ever more frequent recessions. But the gains are "frustratingly" short of the strides that are needed, he said.

The message went on:

"I do not expect a fifth postwar recession to interrupt our progress in 1963.

"It is not the fear of recession but the fact of five years of ex-

Offer Studied To End Coast Dock Strike

Union Accepts Pay Proposals; Owners Set Tuesday Action

NEW YORK (AP)—Negotiators for striking longshoremen have accepted a presidential board's proposals to end the month long, Maine-to-Texas dock tie-up. Ship owners deferred action until Tuesday.

The board's proposal for a 39-cents-an-hour package increase over two years—including 24 cents in wage boosts—was accepted Sunday night by negotiators for union longshoremen who work in ports from Norfolk, Va., northward.

A union spokesman said that even if ship owners and stevedoring companies accept the proposal the strike could not be considered over until dockworkers along the Southeast and Gulf coasts get the same offer.

Polio Clinics Treat 16,928

Hancock's Turnout Pleases Sponsors

A total of 16,928 Hancock Countians received Sabin polio vaccine in a mass immunization program Sunday at five clinics in Weirton and another in New Cumberland.

Although the turnout in Hancock was 1,388 less than at the first immunization program in December when the Type I oral vaccine was offered, sponsors said they were "satisfied and well-pleased" with the response Sunday.

In December, 18,316 received the vaccine on cubes of sugar.

Seven counties in the Upper Ohio Valley participated along with Hancock, including Jefferson County. A total of 680 received the vaccine at a clinic at Stanton Local High School in Hammondsville, compared to 786 in December.

Tshombe Greets U.N. At Kolwezi

KOLWEZI, Katanga (AP) — United Nations forces moved peacefully into Kolwezi today and the military action to reintegrate Katanga with the rest of the Congo seemed virtually at an end.

Operation "Grand Slam Two" began at dawn. It was completed about eight hours later, with Brig. Reginald Noronha, the U.N. military commander, being welcomed into town by President Moise Tshombe.

Not a shot was fired and little knots of civilians and unarmed Katanga gendarmes waved cheerily as the U.N. column rumbled past.

Kolwezi was the last stronghold of Katanga's secessionist forces.

Most of the white soldiers in Tshombe's forces were believed to have scattered from Kolwezi. The Katangan gendarmes there were reported disbanding and laying down their arms.

U.N. Undersecretary Ralph J. Bunche said in New York that occupation of Kolwezi would lead to the rapid windup of the U.N. military operation that employs nearly 19,000 men. The operation has forced the United Nations nearly to bankruptcy.

Once Kolwezi is occupied, Bunche told U.S. chief delegate Adlai E. Stevenson in a television interview—ABC-TV's "Adlai Stevenson Reports"—the United Nations will launch the "most massive technical assistance effort in human history" to turn the divided Congo into a sound, unified nation.

Secretary-General U Thant has appealed to the 110 U.N. members to contribute $8.6 million toward a $19-million Congo aid program. U.N. officials hope that the Soviet Union, France and other nations which refused to contribute funds for the military operation will help pay for the technical assistance program.

William F. Boyd Rites Set

Former Resident Killed In California Auto Crash

Funeral services have been set for a former East Liverpool resident who was injured fatally Saturday in an auto collision on a fog-shrouded four-lane highway in California.

Dead is William F. Boyd, 24, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald F. Boyd of 2320 Woodlawn Rd., Portsmouth, Ohio.

The accident happened Saturday morning on Route 99, seven miles north of Medera, which is 160 miles southeast of San Francisco.

According to Madera County Coroner Robert Jay, an auto driven by Consuelo Campos of Woodside, Calif., crashed into the rear of Mr. Boyd's car.

The coroner said Mr. Boyd was driving south about 25 miles an hour when Campos' car, following at 50 miles an hour, plowed into the rear of his auto. Mr. Boyd had a seat belt in his car, but whiplash caused his head to strike a window and he died of a cerebral hemorrhage at 10:30 a.m. in Madera County Hospital.

Mr. Boyd, a senior at Stanford University Law School, Palo Alto, Calif., was en route to San Francisco for a business appointment.

Mr. Boyd was born in East Liverpool April 4, 1938. The family later moved to Portsmouth.

He was a graduate of Portsmouth High School and the Ohio State University College of Commerce. He was a member of Sigma Chi fraternity at Stanford.

He is survived by his parents; a sister, Mary Josephine Boyd, a student at Goucher, Baltimore, Md., and a brother, Theodore V. Boyd, a student at Miami University, Oxford, Ohio.

Mr. Boyd was a grandson of

Safety's The Key In '63

Columbiana County's first traffic fatality of the year was registered early Sunday morning when a Pennsylvania man was killed in a collision of three vehicles on Route 14 a mile and three-tenths west of Unity.

Seven other persons were injured in the mishap at 12:30 a.m., according to the Lisbon State Highway Patrol.

Killed was Clayton Puffinburger, 22, of Freedom R. D. 1, driver of one of the cars.

Officers said Mr. Puffinburger was headed east and passing another car driven by James G. Cable, 28, of New Galilee, when his car collided nearly head-on with a tractor - trailer truck driven by John J. Speziale, 29, of Youngstown.

The Puffinburger car then veered off and struck the side of Cable's car, officers said. Extensive damage resulted to all three vehicles.

Mr. Puffinburger was dead on arrival at Salem City Hospital with a crushed chest, fractured skull and fractures of both legs.

It was the first traffic death for the new year, compared with two deaths at the same time in 1962.

Joseph Carl Fabrizio, 22, of Freedom R. D. 1, a passenger in Mr. Puffinburger's car, was among those injured. He suffered multiple abrasions of the upper body and face and fractured ribs.

Speziale suffered lacerations of the scalp and a chest injury while a passenger in his truck, Sam Speziale, 14, of Youngstown, his nephew, received abrasions of the forehead and face and an injury of the left wrist.

Not guilty pleas were filed by Jerry Kent, 20, of Park Way, accused of assault with intent to rape a Wellsville area woman, and Andrew Pappas of California, formerly of Lisbon, accused of larceny and receiving stolen property.

Pleading guilty and requesting probation were:

Frederick L. Clair, 36, of Rogers, two counts of forgery of checks on the First National Bank in East Palestine.

Hancock Gets 'Guilty' Pleas Of Area Men

Local Youth Admits Auto Theft Charge At Arraignment

Two area men, among 15 indicted by the January Grand Jury last Tuesday, pleaded guilty to felony indictments when arraigned in Hancock County Circuit Court in New Cumberland this morning.

Sentencing was set Jan. 29 at 2 p. m. for Charles R. Richards, 19, of East Liverpool, accused of auto theft, and Charlie Hall, 20, of Chester, charged with theft of $198.29 from Goddard Bakers of Chester Oct. 30.

The alleged accomplice of Hall—Gary Lee Call, 18, of Wellsville—appeared before Judge James G. McClure after surrendering voluntarily over the weekend to the sheriff's office.

Judge McClure had ordered a bench warrant for the arrest of the Wellsville youth after he had failed to appear for arraignment Thursday. Call's case was continued until Jan. 29 at 2 p. m. in order to provide time for him to obtain legal counsel, the judge said.

Ten defendants pleaded innocent, including five women accused of violation of West Virginia liquor laws in raids by State Police last July at two taverns along State Route 2 near Weirton.

As the indictments are of a misdemeanor nature, the female defendants were not required to appear for arraignment this morning. Pleas were entered on their behalf by Atty. Leonard Alpert. Trials for each were set Feb. 5.

Also pleading innocent, the

Mercury Due To Dip Lower

Warmer Readings Expected Tuesday

The cold wave will deepen tonight, sending the mercury down to zero to 5 degrees below, the Ohio weatherman warned.

But there may be some relief Tuesday, the forecaster said. Tuesday will be cloudy, with a chance of light snow, but not so cold, he promised.

Last night's area lows were bone-chilling, although they were above the readings expected tonight.

Suburban areas had an even zero as the overnight low, while downtown East Liverpool recorded 3 above. In rural areas, the mercury dipped as far as 5 below last night.

The weatherman said today will be marked by scattered snow flurries and windy and very cold weather. He said the mercury is expected to range between 4 and 10 degrees — climbing very little from the overnight low.

Light snow fell Sunday afternoon in some parts of the district, glazing secondary roads briefly, but no really hazardous driving conditions developed. On busy highways, the trace of snow blew off the pavement almost as rapidly as it fell.

Safety's The Key In '63

Columbiana County's first traffic fatality of the year was registered early Sunday morning when a Pennsylvania man was killed in a collision of three vehicles on Route 14 a mile and three-tenths west of Unity.

Seven other persons were injured in the mishap at 12:30 a.m., according to the Lisbon State Highway Patrol.

Killed was Clayton Puffinburger, 22, of Freedom R. D. 1, driver of one of the cars.

Officers said Mr. Puffinburger was headed east and passing another car driven by James G. Cable, 28, of New Galilee, when his car collided nearly head-on with a tractor - trailer truck driven by John J. Speziale, 29, of Youngstown.

The Puffinburger car then veered off and struck the side of Cable's car, officers said. Extensive damage resulted to all three vehicles.

Mr. Puffinburger was dead on arrival at Salem City Hospital with a crushed chest, fractured skull and fractures of both legs.

It was the first traffic death for the new year, compared with two deaths at the same time in 1962.

William F. Boyd Rites Set

Former Resident Killed In California Auto Crash

Funeral services have been set for a former East Liverpool resident who was injured fatally Saturday in an auto collision on a fog-shrouded four-lane highway in California.

Dead is William F. Boyd, 24, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald F. Boyd of 2320 Woodlawn Rd., Portsmouth, Ohio.

The accident happened Saturday morning on Route 99, seven miles north of Medera, which is 160 miles southeast of San Francisco.

According to Madera County Coroner Robert Jay, an auto driven by Consuelo Campos of Woodside, Calif., crashed into the rear of Mr. Boyd's car.

The coroner said Mr. Boyd was driving south about 25 miles an hour when Campos' car, following at 50 miles an hour, plowed into the rear of his auto. Mr. Boyd had a seat belt in his car, but whiplash caused his head to strike a window and he died of a cerebral hemorrhage at 10:30 a.m. in Madera County Hospital.

Mr. Boyd, a senior at Stanford University Law School, Palo Alto, Calif., was en route to San Francisco for a business appointment.

Mr. Boyd was born in East Liverpool April 4, 1938. The family later moved to Portsmouth.

He was a graduate of Portsmouth High School and the Ohio State University College of Commerce. He was a member of Sigma Chi fraternity at Stanford.

He is survived by his parents; a sister, Mary Josephine Boyd, a student at Goucher, Baltimore, Md., and a brother, Theodore V. Boyd, a student at Miami University, Oxford, Ohio.

Mr. Boyd was a grandson of

7 Defendants Plead Guilty; 2 File Denials

Pleading guilty and requesting probation were:

Hancock Gets 'Guilty' Pleas Of Area Men

Local Youth Admits Auto Theft Charge At Arraignment

Two area men, among 15 indicted by the January Grand Jury last Tuesday, pleaded guilty to felony indictments when arraigned in Hancock County Circuit Court in New Cumberland this morning.

Sentencing was set Jan. 29 at 2 p. m. for Charles R. Richards, 19, of East Liverpool, accused of auto theft, and Charlie Hall, 20, of Chester, charged with theft of $198.29 from Goddard Bakers of Chester Oct. 30.

The alleged accomplice of Hall—Gary Lee Call, 18, of Wellsville—appeared before Judge James G. McClure after surrendering voluntarily over the weekend to the sheriff's office.

Judge McClure had ordered a bench warrant for the arrest of the Wellsville youth after he had failed to appear for arraignment Thursday. Call's case was continued until Jan. 29 at 2 p. m. in order to provide time for him to obtain legal counsel, the judge said.

Ten defendants pleaded innocent, including five women accused of violation of West Virginia liquor laws in raids by State Police last July at two taverns along State Route 2 near Weirton.

As the indictments are of a misdemeanor nature, the female defendants were not required to appear for arraignment this morning. Pleas were entered on their behalf by Atty. Leonard Alpert. Trials for each were set Feb. 5.

Also pleading innocent, the

Mercury Due To Dip Lower

Warmer Readings Expected Tuesday

The cold wave will deepen tonight, sending the mercury down to zero to 5 degrees below, the Ohio weatherman warned.

But there may be some relief Tuesday, the forecaster said. Tuesday will be cloudy, with a chance of light snow, but not so cold, he promised.

Last night's area lows were bone-chilling, although they were above the readings expected tonight.

Suburban areas had an even zero as the overnight low, while downtown East Liverpool recorded 3 above. In rural areas, the mercury dipped as far as 5 below last night.

The weatherman said today will be marked by scattered snow flurries and windy and very cold weather. He said the mercury is expected to range between 4 and 10 degrees — climbing very little from the overnight low.

Light snow fell Sunday afternoon in some parts of the district, glazing secondary roads briefly, but no really hazardous driving conditions developed. On busy highways, the trace of snow blew off the pavement almost as rapidly as it fell.

A collision Saturday at 4 p. m. on E. 4th St. involved a 1959 model car driven by Zada N. Lewis, 54, of W. Drury Lane and an auto operated by Helen L. Robinson, 126 E. 4th St., police said.

The right side of the Lewis car was damaged. The driver told police she was proceeding east on E. 4th St. when the other auto pulled from the curb and hit her car.

A similar mishap Saturday on Market St. near 3rd St. involved a 1957 sedan driven by Fred Kontner, 52, of 932 Grandview Ave. a 1957 sedan operated by Eva Streets of Chester R. D. 1.

Kontnier said the other auto pulled from the curb and hit his car as he drove north on Market St. There was damage to the right side of the Kontnier car and the front bumper of the Streets car, police said.

Cars driven by Janet L. Bryan, 24, of Chester R. D. 1 and William T. Burchett, 23, of 1400 Dresden Ave. were damaged in a mishap Saturday at 5:46 p. m. at Dresden Ave. and Webber Way, police said.

John F. Kelly, 1029 Vine St., told police the left side of his 1957 sedan was damaged in a freak mishap Sunday at 2:10 p m. as he drove in Fox Alley. A pane of glass fell out of a window of an apartment building and struck the auto, he reported.

Mrs. Carl Bell, 2112 Pennsylvania Ave., told police the right front fender of her 1956 two-door sedan was damaged by a hit-skip vehicle between 10:30 a. m. and 1:30 p. m. Saturday while it was parked in a city-owned lot on W. 6th St.

Couldn't Happen To Nicer Guys

Nothing raises anti-Communist eyebrows higher than squabbling between Communist factions.

It seems incredible to people who have been told that the Communist conspiracy is a monolithic apparatus for world conquest that its generals should be trying to tear out one another's throats.

This is so hard to believe they suspect a trick is being played by the Communists, possibly to throw their victims off guard and make it easier to destroy them.

But even though it is possible for the quarreling factions to get together on the common aim of destruction, there is no trick being played. Throat-tearing has been the history of absolutist movements in politics.

Communists were at each other's throats at the outset of the Russian revolution. The Lenin faction had to get rid of the Trotsky faction. Subsequently, Stalin carried on his purges. He and Tito parted company. The whole socialist movement in the United States was splintered and disintegrated by squabbles between irreconcilable factions.

THIS HAS BEEN Communism's history everywhere; this explains the purges and assassinations. When men turn absolutist in their thoughts, they turn absolutist in their judgments. They become irreconcilable.

Americans often talk about the difficulty of distinguishing between their Republican and Democratic parties and yearn for a clear separation between right and left in politics.

They wish for political separations that would put all the reactionaries in one party, all the liberals in another and, presumably, all moderates out in the cold.

They deplore the tendency to carry on policy discussions. They say it would be better if party leaders dictated all policies, though they would be horrified if anyone reminded them this is the way the Communist party maintains its "party line."

Especially do they resent the way voters must weigh pros and cons in elections and scratch ballots in their effort to make decisions. Here again they would be horrified at the suggestion that what they would like is a system giving voters less choice, but that is essentially what they are thinking about — a black-and-white, yes-and-no, you-are-for-us-or-against-us election. The American system strikes them as namby-pamby.

YET THIS IS the system that makes it possible for the American people to carry on continuous discussions of policy without bloodshed and to conduct elections in which losers congratulate winners and get ready for another showdown at a later date.

It is the system that makes it possible "to throw the rascals out" with monotonous regularity — and likewise "to throw the rascals in" with regularity. It is a system so flexible that in the long run it finds the parties adopting each other's policies.

Its great merit is its flexibility, its lack of absolutism. It would be as unthinkable for Americans to tell Frenchmen and Britons what to think about popular government as for them to tell each other what to think about taxes, on pain of being read out of the party.

This flexibility is the essence of the American way.

It never seems more precious than it does when Communist absolutists are locking horns over one of their "irreconcilable" issues.

Community Assets

Two more East Liverpool residents have been honored for outstanding service to the community.

Receiving the Distinguished Service Award and the Civic Service Award at the 23rd annual Bosses' Night dinner of the Junior Chamber of Commerce were W. Edward Adkins and Dr. John A. Fraser.

Each has contributed greatly toward a better East Liverpool in many capacities. Each deservedly joins the list of previous award winners.

Men such as Dr. Fraser and Mr. Adkins have set examples which many of us would do well to follow.

Things Were Tough Then, Too

Entrance requirements for college are becoming stricter these days, but before they begin feeling too sorry for themselves, prospective college students from the East Liverpool district should take a look at what was required of their great grandfathers upon entering college.

Urbana College at Urbana, Ohio recalls the following requirements for admission in June of 1877:

"For admission to the Freshman Class in the classical course at Urbana, candidates must pass a written examination in Virgil and Cicero, in Latin; in Xenophon in Greek; in geometry, the I and III books of Davies Legendre, or equivalent in Olney; in algebra to equations of the second degree; in English grammar, and in ancient and modern geography.

"The proficiency of the student will be tested, not by the amount he has gone over, but by his practical ability in performing tasks assigned him in the examination. In the scientific course, the amount of Latin contained in the prose of Allen's Latin Reader, or the ability to translate readily, with the aid of a vocabulary, selections taken at random from Sallust or Caesar, giving rules of construction—will be all the preparation required in classics.

"In mathematics, the candidates must be prepared in plane and solid geometry, and in algebra through equations of the second degree, with two unknown quantities; and he must be well versed in geography and English grammar."

It all sounds rather foreboding and should take some of the sting from today's requirements.

Best Wishes

The best wishes of Columbiana County residents—Republicans and Democrats alike—go with Atty. Warren Bettis as he assumes his new duties on the Ohio Public Utlities Commission.

Mr. Bettis is stepping into an important position as a member of the PUC. With the broader knowledge of his duties that will come with experience, he should serve capably.

Fun With Figures

By Truman Twill

A game in this country more popular than bowling, basketball and golf is Fun With Figures.

It has nothing to do with female figures, which are in another dimension of fun. Nor has it anything to do with higher mathematics.

You pay a buck for something you once bought for 25 cents. Then you tell someone what happened and say gloomily, "I wonder where it will end. Imagine, a buck for a two-bit item. It's ridiculous."

That's Fun with Figures. It's a gloomy game.

The game builds up to big league size in government spending. Someone looks at the spending total, exhales and sighs, "Great cannibalistic catfish! That's more money than was spent from the Tower of Babel up to the Golden Gate Bridge. The fools must be mad."

Or they mutter, "Great creamed codfish with parsley! If people had started to piddle away a dollar a minute from the time Aristophanes begat Dinwoodie III in the era of the Auk they wouldn't have piddled away this much, even if they never knocked off for the holidays."

It is a fact that if all the money were piled up, it would reach to Telstar. It is a fact that if laid end to end it would make a four-lane highway seven times around the earth in the vicinity of the Tropic of Capricorn.

It is a fact that if some fool had cranked up a $10 sale on a cash register every 10 seconds from the time of the first Henry Adams onward to 15 minutes after the inauguration of Roosevelt II he would not have been able to keep abreast of the interest charges on the national debt.

But comparisons of this kind are spurious. They all come out of a spurious assumption—that money is a system of fixed values. It isn't. It is a system of counting values that fluctuate like a cooch-dancer's spangles.

Men once worked for a dollar a day and were glad to get it. They lived and raised families on a dollar a day. They now get a dollar for each fraction of an hour. So what if they pay a buck for something that once cost 25 cents? They're ahead and pulling away.

All money comparisons must be related to stable value before anything is revealed.

An automobile today is five times as good as when it cost three times as much, just before mass production reduced the cost to half that much but reduced the quality to a fourth what it had been and at the same time raised the road clearance 50 per cent and made it possible for Henry Ford to pay $5 a day across the board to $1 a day employes who had been across the barrel.

How long does an earner have to do something useful for pay before he earns a pound of potatoes—or a pound of anything basically nourishing? That's the only stabilized value worth comparing.

With due respect for Fun With Figures experts who pile up dollar bills to the moon and clackety-clack on adding machines to learn how many billion seconds have ticked away in the Christian era, let's stick to potatoes. Preferably mashed, with pan gravy.

Odd Facts

The most famous American to die "on the field of honor" was Alexander Hamilton, the first U. S. secretary of the Treasury. He was killed in a pistol duel with the vice president of the U. S., Aaron Burr. Hamilton was mortally wounded on precisely the same spot where three years earlier his son also had been killed in a duel.

The dodo bird, which is found in so many crossword puzles, became extinct in about 1680. This bird was closely related to the pigeon, but was very awkward. Its name comes from the Portuguese meaning silly or foolish.

The word "booze" is said to be an English adaptation or corruption of the Turkish word "buzeh", which is used in Syria to include sherberts and similar iced drinks.

A watch is the smallest accurate mechanism in common use today. Some of the parts of a watch are so small that 10,000 of them would not fill a thimble.

Communism's Troubles Are Mounting

By William L. Ryan

BERLIN

The Kremlin has been defied in public, and this Red Chinese challenge may mark the opening of a new chapter in world communism's history.

The movement is likely to be weakened as a result of what took place in East Berlin in the past week. Perhaps what the world is seeing is the beginning of a division of the Communist world into two camps.

That development might be gradual and take much time, but it would be history repeating itself. The movement divided in the past in a titanic clash of opinion between Stalin and Leon Trotsky. The Kremlin won that one.

BUT THE Kremlin is a far different thing today than when Stalin was its tenant. When he was high priest of communism, any disobedience brought awful punishment. Tito of Yugoslavia got away with it because he had no border with the U.S.S.R., but the punishment in 1948 was excommunication from the family of Communists.

It was a strange spectacle that the 2,500 delegates and guests from 70 countries witnessed at the East German party congress. There the Red Chinese practically thumbed their noses at Soviet Premier Khrushchev and demanded that he admit he had been in the wrong in their argument.

It was like some sort of weird, far-out musical comedy in the Werner Seelenbinder Hall in East Berlin, where leading representatives of the Red movement went through grotesque oratorical contortions. All claimed to support the same things. But the two sides carried on vicious infighting as to the definition of those things.

IN THIS battle of semantics, there is a weighty question for Moscow. Can the Communist movement afford to have its pinnacle of authority, its once awesomely powerful throne thus publicly held up to scorn by mavericks

A Kremlin which no longer can terrify its ideological foes into quiet submission stands to suffer around the world from loss of discipline, particularly in areas like Latin America, Asia and Africa. If it is possible for one party to defy the Kremlin, it is possible for any party to do so, and an ally will be on hand in Peking.

The intensity of the battle forced its way through the curtain of double talk. On the surface it appeared that both sides were asking for a truce, that both were ready to talk it over, that basically both stood for exactly the same things.

The Chinese delegate, Wu Hsiu-chuan, said he supported the need for a peace treaty with East and West Germany to wind up World War II.

He supported the idea that Western troops should be driven out of West Berlin. He said Peking supports peaceful coexistence and always has. The Chinese support "proletarian internationalism." The Red Chinese want friendship with the Soviet Union.

But Khrushchev has not been doing anything about that German peace treaty, despite his threats for the past four years. He has been doing little about Berlin since the wall was erected in 1961.

THE CHINESE definition of peaceful coexistence differs from Khrushchev's. They display fear that the Kremlin's brand means coexistence of two conflicting ideologies, deals with "imperialism," backing away from revolutionary situations which look dangerous.

They seem to have a different definition of "proletarian internationalism", too. To Khrushchev and company the term has meant that the Russians would make the decisions and all the others would approve and follow them.

To the Chinese, "proletarian internationalism" seems to mean an equal voice in decisions for Peking. Again and again, Wu stressed the notion of equality. Red China wants to be friends with the Soviet Union, but on the basis of equality.

And to the Chinese, Khrushchev has violated the terms of Moscow declarations of 1957 and 1960, first by denying that equality, and second by patching things up with the "revisionists of the Yugoslav Communist clique", of which the Chinese now consider Khrushchev a leading member.

By Khrushchev's denials and his defensive statements, one can gather just what the Chinese are accusing him of doing.

Khrushchev says he has not shelved the issue of the German peace treaty. He says he is not recognizing the status quo in Berlin. He says it is true the Communist wall has changed matters in Berlin, but this should not be taken to mean that interest in forcing a solution favorable to communism has been weakened.

KHRUSHCHEV denies he backed down before President Kennedy's firmness in the Cuban crisis.

By implication, Wu in his speech asked Khrushchev to step up like a man and admit he was wrong all along — something Khrushchev is not likely to do. Speaking of the possibility of a meeting to discuss the Moscow-Peking differences, Wu said:

"It will be helpful in resolving problems for the comrades who first attacked fraternal parties to take the initiative."

That means Khrushchev, who assailed Albania openly in the October 1961 Soviet Communist congress.

But Khrushchev must do more if he wants to placate the Chinese. He must recognize that, in Wu's words, a "favorable international situation" now exists for communism.

That is: This is the time for communism to stay on the offensive, to grab and dominate revolutionary movements in Latin America, Africa and Asia and to stop worrying about whether such activity will touch off war. And Khrushchev must stop worrying about U.S. nuclear power.

"Man is the decisive factor in the struggle against imperialism," said Wu, ignoring catcalls and whistles of the delegates. "U.S. imperialism bullies the faint - hearted but fears the stout-hearted."

The performances of Wu and Khrushchev at Berlin strongly suggest the split between Moscow and Peking remains deep and may get deeper. There is no sign of repentance from the Chinese side. There is only the repeated suggestion that Khrushchev is the one who must repent.

Kennedy's Record

By James Marlow

Scores Some Successes, Suffers Some Failures

WASHINGTON

How does President Kennedy's record look after two years? Overseas he had one spectacular success, one spectacular failure. Both involved Cuba. At home he has had some successes, a number of failures.

His leadership, like President Eisenhower's, has been best in foreign affairs. Thanks to that, and to this country's belated realization of its missile superiority, there has been a new self-confidence in dealing with communism.

Kennedy has remained highly popular. There are two good reasons: his acute sense of public relations and his usually moderate positions, which means a reluctance to antagonize groups or individuals.

He has given the presidency a great sense of life and hustle. But there's a deep difference between activity and leadership. Kennedy, like Eisenhower, often lacked driving leadership in dealing with Congress.

The result: he got much less than he asked or said he wanted, like federal aid to education and medical care for the aged.

So far there has been a greater sense of economic stability under Kennedy than under Eisenhower. In Eisenhower's two terms there were three recessions. Kennedy had to clean up the last of them.

In foreign affairs there have been no sensational improvements. Perhaps it would be better to say: no long-range improvements that are definitely visible. But anyone who expected this was unrealistic. Kennedy didn't promise it.

In his inaugural two years ago Sunday he said the overseas dilemmas might not be solved in his lifetime. In that inaugural he dwelt entirely on seeking solutions abroad. He didn't even mention problems at home.

In view of what followed this was significant. He apparently didn't consider domestic needs so pressing. Then later he went far less than all-out for some of the programs he promised in the 1960 campaign. So, Congress ignored them.

Why did this happen when Kennedy's own Democrats ran Congress and in numbers overwhelmed the Republican? Both parties, despite campaign talk, are mainly conservative except in moments, like New Deal days, of grinding urgency.

And, when there appears to be a national complacency, this conservatism is fortified.

When Kennedy took office the country — although in recession and with large unemployment—still had fairly high income. It was, judging from the absence of any insistent national cry for new directions, rather easy about it all.

Kennedy seemed to reflect this absence of urgency. He didn't make any knock-down, drag-out fight for programs, like medical care, which would have meant new directions.

He stuck to his promise to try to get the country "moving again." He did this through a number of remedies which Congress approved. They were not basically new.

Still, the economy is far from moving in highest gear. So this year Kennedy is asking Congress to cut taxes to give the economy a lift. This is where he runs into the conservatives again. It isn't clear how much he'll fight for this.

American missile superiority, now clearly established although it was probably achieved in Eisenhower's time, has chilled some of Premier Khrushchev's belligerency. He even is beginning to sound moderate, at least compared with the past.

This was one of the two things which apparently improved relations with Moscow. The other was the realization of Kennedy's determination in leadership. The example: forcing Khrushchev to yank his missiles out of Cuba.

Still unexplained and still incomprehensible was Kennedy's biggest failure: the American-backed invasion of Cuba. It was a wild-eyed chance. Kennedy never took another like it.

Kennedy can't take credit for the widening split between Russia and Red China but his careful, even considerate, handling of Khrushchev may have been a factor.

His two greatest victories at home were getting a new trade program through Congress and forcing the steel industry to back down on a price increase.

Kennedy, like Eisenhower at Little Rock, had one racial explosion. This was when he had to use troops to get James Meredith, a Negro, into the University of Mississippi. Otherwise, like Eisenhower, he has been very careful about irritating white Southerners while desegregation goes on.

The Fiery Mr. Hays

By Neil Gilbride

WASHINGTON

"They hardly even squeal unless you stick them pretty hard," said Rep. Wayne L. Hays (D-Ohio), thereby drawing a roar of laughter from the U.S. House.

Hays, who wields one of the sharpest verbal stilettos in Congress, knows how to make them squeal.

His laughter-provoking remark related to criticism of a Republican congressman, but the Democrats, including President Kennedy himself, also frequently feel the sting of the Ohioan's tongue.

Re-elected in November to a seventh term, Hays is ready to go back on the firing line in the new Congress. The prospect is alarming to some people, interesting to all.

Hays may have to take some time off, however, as he is scheduled to enter Bethesda Naval Hospital in a few days for a gall bladder operation.

IN HOUSE debate and as chairman of an important foreign affairs subcommittee, Hays is at his pungent best puncturing an argument with a single caustic remark or verbally flaying a squirming witness he thinks is not being quite frank.

Some call him "the terrible tempered Mr. Hays," but a strong vein of humor often leavens his sallies. Wrote one observer.

"He snaps and crackles and flashes . . . if you are safe, it is pleasant to behold—like a summer electrical storm."

No target is too sacred to escape the thunderbolts of an aroused Hays, including heads of state, and he recognizes no man as boss.

"I am under no compulsion not to say the wrong thing because of my superiors because," he explains, "I don't happen to have one."

He recalls disagreeing with Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev at a Moscow reception on the subject of whether Soviet citizens are free to travel.

Hays said he offered to introduce legislation to pay for a million Russians to visit America and the incredulous Khrushchev asked, "Why would you do a thing like that?"

Hays: "Because when they got back home you would have a million of the damndest, most dissatisfied Russians you ever saw or heard of."

THREATENING to bolt the Kennedy bandwagon at the 1960 Democratic convention in a squabble over whether Bobby Kennedy or a Lyndon Johnson supporter should address the Ohio delegation, Hays snapped:

"There's not enough pressure or money in the Kennedy family to make me vote for him if I don't want to."

He did stick with Mr. Kennedy, who later gingerly praised him as "a tower of strength".

State Department officials shudder at some of his outspoken comments during committee hearings.

"I don't know what the protocol around here is," he said at one, "but the ambassador to Uppet Volta out my way would have the same protocol as the county dog-catcher."

Another time he interrupted a witness seeking authorization of funds for more foreign service

"What do you mean, a military attache in the Central African Republic. . . ? What you need a naval attache in Ireland or a military attache in the Central African Republic for is more than I can understand. Even if the military attache wants to go there, let him live in a mud hut as far as I am concerned!"

SOME OTHER Hays thunderbolts:

To Secretary of State Dean Rusk: "One of our problems all around the world is that they think we are suckers and we act like suckers and the sooner we wake up and act like our money is worth something, that it doesn't come out of a barrel by the shovelful, the more likely they are going to pay some attention to us."

Stalking out of a hearing at which the witness was Chester Bowles, then an adviser to Mr. Kennedy. "He doesn't know anything and I wouldn't believe what he said anyway and you can quote me on that."

Couldn't Happen To Nicer Guys

Nothing raises anti-Communist eyebrows higher than squabbling between Communist factions.

It seems incredible to people who have been told that the Communist conspiracy is a monolithic apparatus for world conquest that its generals should be trying to tear out one another's throats.

This is so hard to believe they suspect a trick is being played by the Communists, possibly to throw their victims off guard and make it easier to destroy them.

But even though it is possible for the quarreling factions to get together on the common aim of destruction, there is no trick being played. Throat-tearing has been the history of absolutist movements in politics.

Communists were at each other's throats at the outset of the Russian revolution. The Lenin faction had to get rid of the Trotsky faction. Subsequently, Stalin carried on his purges. He and Tito parted company. The whole socialist movement in the United States was splintered and disintegrated by squabbles between irreconcilable factions.

THIS HAS BEEN Communism's history everywhere; this explains the purges and assassinations. When men turn absolutist in their thoughts, they turn absolutist in their judgments. They become irreconcilable.

Americans often talk about the difficulty of distinguishing between their Republican and Democratic parties and yearn for a clear separation between right and left in politics.

They wish for political separations that would put all the reactionaries in one party, all the liberals in another and, presumably, all moderates out in the cold.

They deplore the tendency to carry on policy discussions. They say it would be better if party leaders dictated all policies, though they would be horrified if anyone reminded them this is the way the Communist party maintains its "party line."

Especially do they resent the way voters must weigh pros and cons in elections and scratch ballots in their effort to make decisions. Here again they would be horrified at the suggestion that what they would like is a system giving voters less choice, but that is essentially what they are thinking about — a black-and-white, yes-and-no, you-are-for-us-or-against-us election. The American system strikes them as namby-pamby.

YET THIS IS the system that makes it possible for the American people to carry on continuous discussions of policy without bloodshed and to conduct elections in which losers congratulate winners and get ready for another showdown at a later date.

It is the system that makes it possible "to throw the rascals out" with monotonous regularity — and likewise "to throw the rascals in" with regularity. It is a system so flexible that in the long run it finds the parties adopting each other's policies.

Its great merit is its flexibility, its lack of absolutism. It would be as unthinkable for Americans to tell Frenchmen and Britons what to think about popular government as for them to tell each other what to think about taxes, on pain of being read out of the party.

This flexibility is the essence of the American way.

Community Assets

Two more East Liverpool residents have been honored for outstanding service to the community.

Receiving the Distinguished Service Award and the Civic Service Award at the 23rd annual Bosses' Night dinner of the Junior Chamber of Commerce were W. Edward Adkins and Dr. John A. Fraser.

Each has contributed greatly toward a better East Liverpool in many capacities. Each deservedly joins the list of previous award winners.

Men such as Dr. Fraser and Mr. Adkins have set examples which many of us would do well to follow.

Things Were Tough Then, Too

Entrance requirements for college are becoming stricter these days, but before they begin feeling too sorry for themselves, prospective college students from the East Liverpool district should take a look at what was required of their great grandfathers upon entering college.

Urbana College at Urbana, Ohio recalls the following requirements for admission in June of 1877:

"For admission to the Freshman Class in the classical course at Urbana, candidates must pass a written examination in Virgil and Cicero, in Latin; in Xenophon in Greek; in geometry, the I and III books of Davies Legendre, or equivalent in Olney; in algebra to equations of the second degree; in English grammar, and in ancient and modern geography.

"The proficiency of the student will be tested, not by the amount he has gone over, but by his practical ability in performing tasks assigned him in the examination. In the scientific course, the amount of Latin contained in the prose of Allen's Latin Reader, or the ability to translate readily, with the aid of a vocabulary, selections taken at random from Sallust or Caesar, giving rules of construction—will be all the preparation required in classics.

"In mathematics, the candidates must be prepared in plane and solid geometry, and in algebra through equations of the second degree, with two unknown quantities; and he must be well versed in geography and English grammar."

It all sounds rather foreboding and should take some of the sting from today's requirements.

Best Wishes

The best wishes of Columbiana County residents—Republicans and Democrats alike—go with Atty. Warren Bettis as he assumes his new duties on the Ohio Public Utlities Commission.

Mr. Bettis is stepping into an important position as a member of the PUC. With the broader knowledge of his duties that will come with experience, he should serve capably.

Fun With Figures

By Truman Twill

A game in this country more popular than bowling, basketball and golf is Fun With Figures.

It has nothing to do with female figures, which are in another dimension of fun. Nor has it anything to do with higher mathematics.

You pay a buck for something you once bought for 25 cents. Then you tell someone what happened and say gloomily, "I wonder where it will end. Imagine, a buck for a two-bit item. It's ridiculous."

That's Fun with Figures. It's a gloomy game.

The game builds up to big league size in government spending. Someone looks at the spending total, exhales and sighs, "Great cannibalistic catfish! That's more money than was spent from the Tower of Babel up to the Golden Gate Bridge. The fools must be mad."

Or they mutter, "Great creamed codfish with parsley! If people had started to piddle away a dollar a minute from the time Aristophanes begat Dinwoodie III in the era of the Auk they wouldn't have piddled away this much, even if they never knocked off for the holidays."

It is a fact that if all the money were piled up, it would reach to Telstar. It is a fact that if laid end to end it would make a four-lane highway seven times around the earth in the vicinity of the Tropic of Capricorn.

It is a fact that if some fool had cranked up a $10 sale on a cash register every 10 seconds from the time of the first Henry Adams onward to 15 minutes after the inauguration of Roosevelt II he would not have been able to keep abreast of the interest charges on the national debt.

But comparisons of this kind are spurious. They all come out of a spurious assumption—that money is a system of fixed values. It isn't. It is a system of counting values that fluctuate like a cooch-dancer's spangles.

Men once worked for a dollar a day and were glad to get it. They lived and raised families on a dollar a day. They now get a dollar for each fraction of an hour. So what if they pay a buck for something that once cost 25 cents? They're ahead and pulling away.

All money comparisons must be related to stable value before anything is revealed.

An automobile today is five times as good as when it cost three times as much, just before mass production reduced the cost to half that much but reduced the quality to a fourth what it had been and at the same time raised the road clearance 50 per cent and made it possible for Henry Ford to pay $5 a day across the board to $1 a day employes who had been across the barrel.

How long does an earner have to do something useful for pay before he earns a pound of potatoes—or a pound of anything basically nourishing? That's the only stabilized value worth comparing.

With due respect for Fun With Figures experts who pile up dollar bills to the moon and clackety-clack on adding machines to learn how many billion seconds have ticked away in the Christian era, let's stick to potatoes. Preferably mashed, with pan gravy.

Odd Facts

The most famous American to die "on the field of honor" was Alexander Hamilton, the first U. S. secretary of the Treasury. He was killed in a pistol duel with the vice president of the U. S., Aaron Burr. Hamilton was mortally wounded on precisely the same spot where three years earlier his son also had been killed in a duel.

The dodo bird, which is found in so many crossword puzles, became extinct in about 1680. This bird was closely related to the pigeon, but was very awkward. Its name comes from the Portuguese meaning silly or foolish.

The word "booze" is said to be an English adaptation or corruption of the Turkish word "buzeh", which is used in Syria to include sherberts and similar iced drinks.

A watch is the smallest accurate mechanism in common use today. Some of the parts of a watch are so small that 10,000 of them would not fill a thimble.

Communism's Troubles Are Mounting

BERLIN

The Kremlin has been defied in public, and this Red Chinese challenge may mark the opening of a new chapter in world communism's history.

The movement is likely to be weakened as a result of what took place in East Berlin in the past week. Perhaps what the world is seeing is the beginning of a division of the Communist world into two camps.

That development might be gradual and take much time, but it would be history repeating itself. The movement divided in the past in a titanic clash of opinion between Stalin and Leon Trotsky. The Kremlin won that one.

BUT THE Kremlin is a far different thing today than when Stalin was its tenant. When he was high priest of communism, any disobedience brought awful punishment. Tito of Yugoslavia got away with it because he had no border with the U.S.S.R., but the punishment in 1948 was excommunication from the family of Communists.

It was a strange spectacle that the 2,500 delegates and guests from 70 countries witnessed at the East German party congress. There the Red Chinese practically thumbed their noses at Soviet Premier Khrushchev and demanded that he admit he had been in the wrong in their argument.

It was like some sort of weird, far-out musical comedy in the Werner Seelenbinder Hall in East Berlin, where leading representatives of the Red movement went through grotesque oratorical contortions. All claimed to support the same things. But the two sides carried on vicious infighting as to the definition of those things.

IN THIS battle of semantics, there is a weighty question for Moscow. Can the Communist movement afford to have its pinnacle of authority, its once awesomely powerful throne thus publicly held up to scorn by mavericks

A Kremlin which no longer can terrify its ideological foes into quiet submission stands to suffer around the world from loss of discipline, particularly in areas like Latin America, Asia and Africa. If it is possible for one party to defy the Kremlin, it is possible for any party to do so, and an ally will be on hand in Peking.

The intensity of the battle forced its way through the curtain of double talk. On the surface it appeared that both sides were asking for a truce, that both were ready to talk it over, that basically both stood for exactly the same things.

The Chinese delegate, Wu Hsiu-chuan, said he supported the need for a peace treaty with East and West Germany to wind up World War II.

He supported the idea that Western troops should be driven out of West Berlin. He said Peking supports peaceful coexistence and always has. The Chinese support "proletarian internationalism." The Red Chinese want friendship with the Soviet Union.

But Khrushchev has not been doing anything about that German peace treaty, despite his threats for the past four years. He has been doing little about Berlin since the wall was erected in 1961.

THE CHINESE definition of peaceful coexistence differs from Khrushchev's. They display fear that the Kremlin's brand means coexistence of two conflicting ideologies, deals with "imperialism," backing away from revolutionary situations which look dangerous.

They seem to have a different definition of "proletarian internationalism", too. To Khrushchev and company the term has meant that the Russians would make the decisions and all the others would approve and follow them.

To the Chinese, "proletarian internationalism" seems to mean an equal voice in decisions for Peking. Again and again, Wu stressed the notion of equality. Red China wants to be friends with the Soviet Union, but on the basis of equality.

And to the Chinese, Khrushchev has violated the terms of Moscow declarations of 1957 and 1960, first by denying that equality, and second by patching things up with the "revisionists of the Yugoslav Communist clique", of which the Chinese now consider Khrushchev a leading member.

By Khrushchev's denials and his defensive statements, one can gather just what the Chinese are accusing him of doing.

Khrushchev says he has not shelved the issue of the German peace treaty. He says he is not recognizing the status quo in Berlin. He says it is true the Communist wall has changed matters in Berlin, but this should not be taken to mean that interest in forcing a solution favorable to communism has been weakened.

KHRUSHCHEV denies he backed down before President Kennedy's firmness in the Cuban crisis.

By implication, Wu in his speech asked Khrushchev to step up like a man and admit he was wrong all along — something Khrushchev is not likely to do. Speaking of the possibility of a meeting to discuss the Moscow-Peking differences, Wu said:

"It will be helpful in resolving problems for the comrades who first attacked fraternal parties to take the initiative."

That means Khrushchev, who assailed Albania openly in the October 1961 Soviet Communist congress.

But Khrushchev must do more if he wants to placate the Chinese. He must recognize that, in Wu's words, a "favorable international situation" now exists for communism.

That is: This is the time for communism to stay on the offensive, to grab and dominate revolutionary movements in Latin America, Africa and Asia and to stop worrying about whether such activity will touch off war. And Khrushchev must stop worrying about U.S. nuclear power.

"Man is the decisive factor in the struggle against imperialism," said Wu, ignoring catcalls and whistles of the delegates. "U.S. imperialism bullies the faint - hearted but fears the stout-hearted."

The performances of Wu and Khrushchev at Berlin strongly suggest the split between Moscow and Peking remains deep and may get deeper. There is no sign of repentance from the Chinese side. There is only the repeated suggestion that Khrushchev is the one who must repent.

Kennedy's Record

By James Marlow

Scores Some Successes, Suffers Some Failures

WASHINGTON

How does President Kennedy's record look after two years? Overseas he had one spectacular success, one spectacular failure. Both involved Cuba. At home he has had some successes, a number of failures.

His leadership, like President Eisenhower's, has been best in foreign affairs. Thanks to that, and to this country's belated realization of its missile superiority, there has been a new self-confidence in dealing with communism.

Kennedy has remained highly popular. There are two good reasons: his acute sense of public relations and his usually moderate positions, which means a reluctance to antagonize groups or individuals.

He has given the presidency a great sense of life and hustle. But there's a deep difference between activity and leadership. Kennedy, like Eisenhower, often lacked driving leadership in dealing with Congress.

The result: he got much less than he asked or said he wanted, like federal aid to education and medical care for the aged.

So far there has been a greater sense of economic stability under Kennedy than under Eisenhower. In Eisenhower's two terms there were three recessions. Kennedy had to clean up the last of them.

In foreign affairs there have been no sensational improvements. Perhaps it would be better to say: no long-range improvements that are definitely visible. But anyone who expected this was unrealistic. Kennedy didn't promise it.

In his inaugural two years ago Sunday he said the overseas dilemmas might not be solved in his lifetime. In that inaugural he dwelt entirely on seeking solutions abroad. He didn't even mention problems at home.

In view of what followed this was significant. He apparently didn't consider domestic needs so pressing. Then later he went far less than all-out for some of the programs he promised in the 1960 campaign. So, Congress ignored them.

Why did this happen when Kennedy's own Democrats ran Congress and in numbers overwhelmed the Republican? Both parties, despite campaign talk, are mainly conservative except in moments, like New Deal days, of grinding urgency.

And, when there appears to be a national complacency, this conservatism is fortified.

When Kennedy took office the country — although in recession and with large unemployment—still had fairly high income. It was, judging from the absence of any insistent national cry for new directions, rather easy about it all.

Kennedy seemed to reflect this absence of urgency. He didn't make any knock-down, drag-out fight for programs, like medical care, which would have meant new directions.

He stuck to his promise to try to get the country "moving again." He did this through a number of remedies which Congress approved. They were not basically new.

Still, the economy is far from moving in highest gear. So this year Kennedy is asking Congress to cut taxes to give the economy a lift. This is where he runs into the conservatives again. It isn't clear how much he'll fight for this.

American missile superiority, now clearly established although it was probably achieved in Eisenhower's time, has chilled some of Premier Khrushchev's belligerency. He even is beginning to sound moderate, at least compared with the past.

This was one of the two things which apparently improved relations with Moscow. The other was the realization of Kennedy's determination in leadership. The example: forcing Khrushchev to yank his missiles out of Cuba.

Still unexplained and still incomprehensible was Kennedy's biggest failure: the American-backed invasion of Cuba. It was a wild-eyed chance. Kennedy never took another like it.

Kennedy can't take credit for the widening split between Russia and Red China but his careful, even considerate, handling of Khrushchev may have been a factor.

His two greatest victories at home were getting a new trade program through Congress and forcing the steel industry to back down on a price increase.

Kennedy, like Eisenhower at Little Rock, had one racial explosion. This was when he had to use troops to get James Meredith, a Negro, into the University of Mississippi. Otherwise, like Eisenhower, he has been very careful about irritating white Southerners while desegregation goes on.

cessive unemployment, unused capacity and slack profits—and the consequent hobbling of our growth rate—that constitutes the urgent case for tax reduction and reform."

The $13.5 billion in proposed tax cuts, partly offset by $3.5 billion of revenue-raising revisions, would go into partial effect on July 1, Kennedy said.

Individual income tax liabilities would be reduced by $6 billion a year, most of which "would translate immediately into greater take-home pay" through lower tax withholding on paychecks. More cuts would come in 1964 and 1965, to a total of well over $8 billion.

More than $7 billion of this would be poured into purchases of new goods and services, Kennedy said, and the spending stream would be swollen as corporations — also beneficiaries of tax relief—increase dividend payments. The rising demand would call for greater output and more factory hiring—and hence, he said, more income and still more spending.

Jerome Selected Bowling Green's Sixth President

BOWLING GREEN, Ohio (AP) —Bowling Green State University has selected as its sixth president Dr. William Travers Jerome III, present dean of Syracuse University's College of Business Administration.

Charles Schwyn of Cygnet confirmed the choice of Jerome, subject to formal approval at the BGSU board of trustees meeting Friday.

Jerome, 43, is married and the father of four children. He won out over 158 other applicants for the $25,000-a-year post.

A presidential selection committee set up by the board selected Jerome to succeed Dr. Ralph Harshman effective Sept. 1. Harshman, president for a little over a year since succeeding Dr. Ralph W. McDonald, is expected to retire at the end of August.

Jerome is a magna cum laude 1941 graduate of Colgate University. He earned a master's degree in business administration and a doctor of commercial science degree at Harvard University.

Between his studies at Harvard, he was assistant to the president of Middlebury (Vt.) College for four years. He became dean of business school at Syracuse in 1958, five years after joining the university faculty.

Chaney Sees Chester Treasury 'In Black'

Chester Councilman Donald Chaney, chairman of the finance committee, said today it is hoped the city's finances will be "in the black" for 1963 as a result of a study of the planned budget.

His committee has reviewed the city finances, Chaney said, but the budget cannot be detailed until March, when the levy estimate is made.

Reappraisal of real estate in the city and Hancock County in 1962 resulted in an increase in taxes which will be reflected in the budget.

He said he expects the city budget to be balanced this year, unless some unexpected major expense is incurred.

1,000 Miners Return To Blast-Struck Shaft

CARMICHAELS, Pa. (AP)—Some 1,000 coal miners returned to work today at U. S. Steel Corp.'s nearby Robena mine where 37 miners died in an explosion last Dec. 6.

The mine had been idle since the blast and the miners had refused two previous orders to return to work. They had said they wanted steps taken to insure safety and prevent more explosions.

The miners voted Saturday to return to work.

Hospital. He is married and has three daughters and six grandchildren.

Adkins, while a comparative newcomer to the community, has a long list of accomplishments.

He was born Dec. 7, 1932, at Powellton, W. Va. He attended South Charleston Schools and graduated in 1951. He graduated from Morris Harvey College in 1955 with a bachelor's degree in business administration.

While in college he was president of Kappa Sigma Kappa Fraternity and was a member of Phi Delta Kappa Fraternity. He was a member of his college debating team which placed seventh in the nation in competition.

ADKINS moved to East Liverpool Sept. 1, 1955, as a field representative for the Cherokee District of the Columbiana Boy Scout Council. He retained the position until Sept. 1, 1957, when he was employed as sales manager of Crescent Brick Co. at New Cumberland.

Adkins is active in Jaycee work. He served as vice president in 1958-59 and president in 1959-60. He was instrumental in the city's first Jaycee Home Show and the first Easter sunrise service. He was state director in 1960-61.

He was membership chairman in 1957-58 and recruited 40 new members. He was vice chairman of the Red Cross in 1958-59 and chairman of the drive in 1959-60. He served as chairman of the Non-Pareil Club basketball tournament in 1960. He is a member of the Columbiana County Basketball Officials Association, serving as president in 1959-60.

ADKINS IS president of the East Liverpool Recreation Council. He attended the International Boy Scout Jamboree at Valley Forge in 1957 and has been a neighborhood commissioner since that year.

He was named chairman of the Salvation Army fund drive the past year but was hampered in his activities by an auto accident in May. He has worked on the Heart Fund, Community Fund and March of Dimes.

He is an active member of the First Methodist Church, presently serving on the Official Board.

He served in the Army from May 1952 to May 1954 and was a sergeant when discharged. He is a member of South Charleston Masonic Lodge 168, the East Liverpool Scottish Rite, in which he performs work in the 29th degree, and is a member of the Ancient Accepted Scottish Rite, Valley of Steubenville. Adkins is married and has two sons.

BILL HOLDEN was toastmaster. The Rev. John F. Stilts of the Orchard Grove Methodist Church gave the invocation.

Carlesimo displayed an easy style in presenting his talk, mixing humor and solemnity.

He said that team sport is a great factor in the freedom enjoyed in this country today. It is democracy at work, as those playing work as a team regardless of race, color or creed, he said.

"Bigotry is not extinct, but at a minimum," he commented.

He pointed out that at the recent Winter Olympics, the Russian and American hockey players embraced after the game. He spoke of the comradeship between track and gymnastic teams that came to this country recently.

ALL THIS shows there are good people in Russia — it's the leaders who are corrupt, Carlesimo said.

He went on to cite the need for God in a man's life and in the life of a nation. He said the Russian leaders know people with faith in God can't be conquered and for this reason are against religion.

We need unity between peoples, he said. Whether we are Catholic, Protestant or Jew, principally our belief is in God, he went on, pointing to the recent trend for those of different faiths to meet together.

Carlesimo said the religious foundation of the world must be strengthened. He said sports can be a contributing factor to world-wide peace and unity. He said he would like to see the State Department channel some money to promote better fellowship through sports.

The dinner committee included Vince Laneve, Frank C. Dawson, Paul Zehnder, Dick Hunsicker, William Bowes, Collin Neal, Dean McKinney and Russell Brown, chairman.

Madeline Lou Cable, 26, received lacerations of the right knee.

Also injured were two children of the Cables, James R. Cable, 7, who suffered scratches of the left face, and Debra Lou Cable, 4, who suffered minor lacerations of the forehead. All were taken to Salem City Hospital.

Three other area accidents were investigated over the weekend, officers said.

George L. Dimmock, 51, of Parma escaped injury when his car struck a pile of logs along Route 45 almost two miles south of Salem Saturday at 8:10 p. m.

Officers said he lost control on a curve and went off the right side of the highway. Dimmock was arrested for failure to transfer the registration of the vehicle.

Cars driven by Clarence Crider, 35, of Columbiana R. D. 2 and Marilyn L. Stillwell, 23, of North Lima R. D. 1 sideswiped on Township Rd. 902 three-tenths of a mile south of Route 558 east of Lisbon Saturday at 2:25 p. m. The Stillwell woman was cited for speed in excess of road conditions.

A Columbiana man was arrested for speeding after a one-car crash on County Rd. 400 almost 11 miles southwest of Salem Sunday at 1:30 a. m.

The patrol said Arthur L. Toot, 20, of 157 Court St., Columbiana, went off the left side the road and struck an embankment.

Hospital. He is married and has three daughters and six grandchildren.

Adkins, while a comparative newcomer to the community, has a long list of accomplishments.

He was born Dec. 7, 1932, at Powellton, W. Va. He attended South Charleston Schools and graduated in 1951. He graduated from Morris Harvey College in 1955 with a bachelor's degree in business administration.

While in college he was president of Kappa Sigma Kappa Fraternity and was a member of Phi Delta Kappa Fraternity. He was a member of his college debating team which placed seventh in the nation in competition.

ADKINS moved to East Liverpool Sept. 1, 1955, as a field representative for the Cherokee District of the Columbiana Boy Scout Council. He retained the position until Sept. 1, 1957, when he was employed as sales manager of Crescent Brick Co. at New Cumberland.

Adkins is active in Jaycee work. He served as vice president in 1958-59 and president in 1959-60. He was instrumental in the city's first Jaycee Home Show and the first Easter sunrise service. He was state director in 1960-61.

He was membership chairman in 1957-58 and recruited 40 new members. He was vice chairman of the Red Cross in 1958-59 and chairman of the drive in 1959-60. He served as chairman of the Non-Pareil Club basketball tournament in 1960. He is a member of the Columbiana County Basketball Officials Association, serving as president in 1959-60.

ADKINS IS president of the East Liverpool Recreation Council. He attended the International Boy Scout Jamboree at Valley Forge in 1957 and has been a neighborhood commissioner since that year.

He was named chairman of the Salvation Army fund drive the past year but was hampered in his activities by an auto accident in May. He has worked on the Heart Fund, Community Fund and March of Dimes.

Adkins is married and has two sons.

BILL HOLDEN was toastmaster. The Rev. John F. Stilts of the Orchard Grove Methodist Church gave the invocation.

Carlesimo displayed an easy style in presenting his talk, mixing humor and solemnity.

He said that team sport is a great factor in the freedom enjoyed in this country today. It is democracy at work, as those playing work as a team regardless of race, color or creed, he said.

"Bigotry is not extinct, but at a minimum," he commented.

He pointed out that at the recent Winter Olympics, the Russian and American hockey players embraced after the game. He spoke of the comradeship between track and gymnastic teams that came to this country recently.

—:—

ALL THIS shows there are good people in Russia — it's the leaders who are corrupt, Carlesimo said.

He went on to cite the need for God in a man's life and in the life of a nation. He said the Russian leaders know people with faith in God can't be conquered and for this reason are against religion.

We need unity between peoples, he said. Whether we are Catholic, Protestant or Jew, principally our belief is in God, he went on, pointing to the recent trend for those of different faiths to meet together.

Carlesimo said the religious foundation of the world must be strengthened. He said sports can be a contributing factor to world-wide peace and unity. He said he would like to see the State Department channel some money to promote better fellowship through sports.

—:—

GUESTS introduced included Atty. J. Warren Bettis of Salineville, Mayor Bert Goodballet, Safety - Service Director Robert Owen, Alvin Babb, past president of the Chamber of Commerce, and Dyke Beede, football coach at Youngstown University.

Fr. Richard Gaffney, pastor, officiated for the double-ring ceremony before an altar background of red and white carnations and snapdragons. Mrs. W. E. Kuniewicz was organist.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a full-length gown of white bridal satin, styled along princess lines. The fitted bodice was designed with a scoop neckline, outlined with seed pearls and sequins, and long, pointed sleeves. The bouffant skirt featured a bustle back with full chapel train.

Her elbow-length veil of imported silk illusion was held in place by a queen's crown of pearls and crystals. She carried a cascade bouquet of white carnations and pompons, centered with a white orchid.

Mrs. Edward Mozina was matron of honor and Mrs. Joseph Emelo, bridesmaid. They wore rouge velveteen dresses trimmed with satin ribbing, featuring scoop necklines, short sleeves and full skirts. The mother of the bride chose a red velvet dress and the bridegroom's mother, a dusty rose sheath. White carnation corsages complemented their attire.

500 Hear Paul Olefsky

Cellist Termed Excellent In Civic Music's Concert

By CLARA HALL

An afternoon of excellent chamber music, presented by Paul Olefsky, young American cellist, featured the season's second concert of the Tri-State Civic Music Association Sunday at Westgate School. About 500 local members and out-of-town guests attended.

The first part of the program included a selection, "Toccata," by Frescobaldi, who wrote in the 16th and 17th centuries. Following was "Sonata in E Minor, Opus 38" by Johannes Brahms, a 19th century composer, written with the score in three parts.

Lawrence Smith, a fine pianist in his own right, was accompanist. As most of the selections were not strictly solo numbers, he commanded as much attention as the cellist.

In playing one of Frederic Chopin's early compositions, "Introduction and Polonaise, Opus 3," which Olefsky arranged, he proved his superb musicianship.

Another portion of the program was dedicated to three composers, all who died in the 1940's. The numbers were "Rhapsody No. 1 in C Major" (Bartok), "Romanze" (Shapleigh) and "Suite Populaire" (De Falla). His well-received encore was a translation of the theme, "After a Dream."

Backstage, Olefsky commented on "the beautiful auditorium." He said he will head for Detroit, where he will appear as soloist with the Detroit Symphony, and then go to Europe for a month to play in all the major cities with such famous groups as the Oslo Symphony and others in Vienna and Germany.

He plans to teach this summer in a music school in Maine, where all the most promising students of the United States are enrolled.

Following the concert, Smith flew back to his home in New York.

Darrell Locke assisted the pianist with music copy. Vincent Maola Jr. and Dr. C. M. Mayberry arranged for ushers. They were Linda Schultz, Jane Shuffer, Karen Pickall, Joe Judge and Len Birms, members of the High School band and orchestra.

Ernest Lowe, president, made the introduction and gave a brief resume of the questionnaire which was distributed at the last concert.

Most response was received on the preference of the Sunday afternoon concerts and the fact that programs should be announced in advance of the membership campaign.

The closing concert will be the performance of the Karlsrud Chorale on the only date available Monday evening, April 1.

Services Slated For President Of Coal Mine Union

HAZLETON, Pa., (AP)—Thomas Kennedy, who went to work in the coal fields when he was 11 and became president of the 200,000-member United Mine Workers Union, will be buried Wednesday.

Kennedy, 75, a one-time Pennsylvania lieutenant governor, died Saturday at his home after a long illness. The cause of death was not disclosed.

His death brings to the presidency of the independent union W. A. (Tony) Boyle, 58, vice president. Boyle has, in effect, been the head of the union since Kennedy became seriously ill a year ago.

Kennedy, taciturn and composed, succeeded the volatile John L. Lewis as president in 1960. The two were close friends. Lewis, 82, is president emeritus of the big union.

Boyle will serve until the expiration of Kennedy's four-year term late in 1964.

Thief Enters Truck Twice, Obtains Coins

A thief forced his way into a parked truck twice on the weekend, obtaining an undetermined amount of change in the second entry, and possibly escaping with several cartons of cigarettes in the first instance, police reported.

The thefts occured in a parked truck owned by the National Cigarette Service and parked at the home of Robert Blatchford, 311 Garfield St., an employe, officers said. The first was reported at 2:37 a. m. Sunday and the second took place at 1:32 a. m. today, officers said.

Patrolmen Paul Carter and Karl Samples discovered the second entry, in which the thief removed two canvas bags containing an undetermined amount in nickels and quarters, police said. Entry was gained by removing a rear window and a screen inside it, officers said.

Blatchford was to check the loss and then advise police. Officers said an undetermined amount of cigarettes apparently was taken in the first entry.

Officers also are investigating the ransacking of three trucks while they were parked at the loading docks of YELP Service, Inc., on the River Rd. sometime between 10 p. m. Saturday and 8:46 a. m. Sunday.

Officers said seals on all three trucks were broken, but it was not known immediately if anything was missing from the miscellaneous cargoes. The thief removed a new pair of shoes from one of the trucks, leaving behind his own old tennis shoes when he changed into the new footgear, officers said.

Herb Buzzard, 2898 Fair St., told police Sunday afternoon a jack and a box of tools was stolen from the trunk of his car by a thief who forced entry while the vehicle was parked at his home.

W. F. Figley of Rural Ln. told police his black and white male German Shepherd dog was stolen Saturday night from his property on the River Rd., where the dog was chained.

Officers also reported five radio antennas were bent and broken on autos parked on the M. & A. Motors used car lot on Broadway. The vandalism was reported to police Sunday at 10:44 a. m.

Grant Democrat Club Will Join In State Centennial

Plans for participating in this year's West Virginia Centennial observance were discussed when the Grant District Democrat Club met Sunday afternoon in the Chester VFW Hall.

A list of suggestions on possible projects the club could sponsor was presented by David Graham and Jack Berry. Graham and Berry reported on a meeting held earlier with Martin Fahey of Weirton, chairman of Hancock County's part in the statewide celebration.

Members are to present additional ideas on the Centennial projects at the next meeting.

William C. Graham, president, was in charge. Mrs. Muriel Williams was named to the publicity committee to fill a vacancy created by the resignation of Thomas Potts.

The meeting marked the first for the club in 1963 and the menu featured sauerkraut and wieners and other traditional New Year's foods.

Dinner was served 51 by Mr. and Mrs. Sherman Williams, Mr. and Mrs. Mike Orenzuk and Irwin Higgs.

Next meeting is Feb. 17.

Masonic Group Holds Inspection Ceremony

About 185 attended the annual inspection of Riddle Masonic Lodge 315 Saturday night at the Masonic Temple. About 31 lodges were represented.

John R. Pattison of East Liverpool and Royal Schofield of Sebring, district deputy grand masters, were the inspecting officers. Thomas H. Wolfe, worshipful master, presided.

Lunch was served, with several of the members' wives assisting.

Next meeting of Riddle Lodge is Jan. 29 at 7 p. m.

Firemen At Rogers, Auxiliary Set Session

ROGERS — Members of the volunteer fire department and auxiliary will hold a special joint meeting Thursday at 8 p. m. at the Community Hall to discuss future projects. The session was called by Howard Wise, president of the firemen.

The firemen held practice drills Sunday afternoon on the truck, air masks and pumps. About 15 participated, according to Harley Rice, chief.

British Bishop 'Fair' After Coronary Attack

LONDON (AP)—William Cardinal Godfrey, 73, "had a fair night but his general condition is unchanged," a spokesman at his home said today.

Strike Slices Union Funds

NEW YORK (AP)—Nine unions are paying nearly $1 million weekly in strike benefits to more than 15,000 members idled by the New York newspaper blackout, a survey showed today. The amount is about two-fifths of their normal wages.

The benefits range from $30 for a single man with no dependents to $120 for others, depending on the union.

Only the deliverers union among 10 major unions affected by the strike is paying no benefits. Its 2,800 members voted to go without strike pay rather than borrow from their pension fund. They still have some income from sales of out-of-town newspapers, whose circulations here have spurted since the city's nine major dailies closed.

So far as could be determined, only the American Newspaper Guild of the unions involved in the 45-day-old strike here has borrowed to enable it to continue benefits to more than 5,000 jobless guildsmen in New York and Cleveland, where a strike that has closed Cleveland's two newspapers is in its 53rd day.

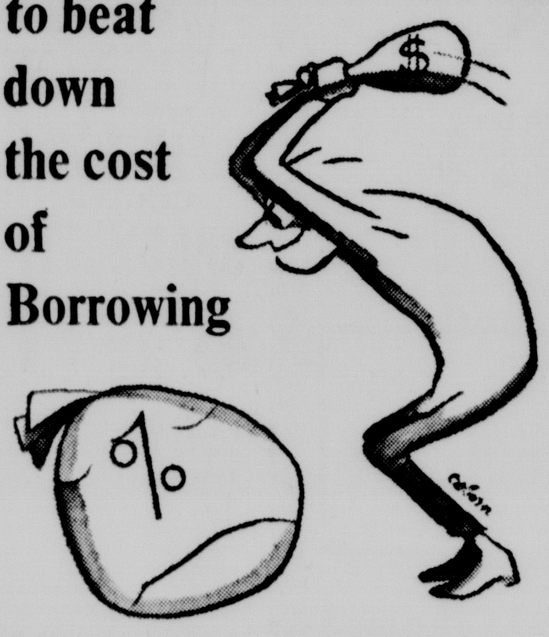
How to use your Savings to beat down the cost of Borrowing



Put your savings in a Full Service commercial bank. Borrow money from that same bank. You'll make the most of your money because you'll pay the least for your loan.

The more you do for a Full Service commercial bank (such as ours), the more we can do for you.

What can you do for us?

Bring us your checking account, your savings account, and any other accounts you may have. And do all your borrowing from us.

In return, what can we do for you?

Chances are we can save you money on loans. Our interest rates for loans are usually lower than the rates at other types of financial institutions.

But what about our lower interest rate on savings?

True, we sometimes pay a little less on savings than other types of financial institutions. But if you're like most people, you'll borrow far more in your lifetime than you'll save. It figures that having to pay even a slightly higher rate on a loan will quickly wipe out any small gain you might make on your savings.

How do we get together?

Very simple. Just let one of our bank officers show you how we can become your financial headquarters. The rest comes easy.

Cellist Termed Excellent In Civic Music's Concert

By CLARA HALL

An afternoon of excellent chamber music, presented by Paul Olefsky, young American cellist, featured the season's second concert of the Tri-State Civic Music Association Sunday at Westgate School. About 500 local members and out-of-town guests attended.

The first part of the program included a selection, "Toccata," by Frescobaldi, who wrote in the 16th and 17th centuries. Following was "Sonata in E Minor, Opus 38" by Johannes Brahms, a 19th century composer, written with the score in three parts.

Lawrence Smith, a fine pianist in his own right, was accompanist. As most of the selections were not strictly solo numbers, he commanded as much attention as the cellist.

In playing one of Frederic Chopin's early compositions, "Introduction and Polonaise, Opus 3," which Olefsky arranged, he proved his superb musicianship.

Another portion of the program was dedicated to three composers, all who died in the 1940's. The numbers were "Rhapsody No. 1 in C Major" (Bartok), "Romanze" (Shapleigh) and "Suite Populaire" (De Falla). His well-received encore was a translation of the theme, "After a Dream."

Backstage, Olefsky commented on "the beautiful auditorium." He said he will head for Detroit, where he will appear as soloist with the Detroit Symphony, and then go to Europe for a month to play in all the major cities with such famous groups as the Oslo Symphony and others in Vienna and Germany.

He plans to teach this summer in a music school in Maine, where all the most promising students of the United States are enrolled.

Following the concert, Smith flew back to his home in New York.

Darrell Locke assisted the pianist with music copy. Vincent Maola Jr. and Dr. C. M. Mayberry arranged for ushers. They were Linda Schultz, Jane Shuffer, Karen Pickall, Joe Judge and Len Birms, members of the High School band and orchestra.

Ernest Lowe, president, made the introduction and gave a brief resume of the questionnaire which was distributed at the last concert.

Most response was received on the preference of the Sunday afternoon concerts and the fact that programs should be announced in advance of the membership campaign.

The closing concert will be the performance of the Karlsrud Chorale on the only date available Monday evening, April 1.

Services Slated For President Of Coal Mine Union

HAZLETON, Pa., (AP)—Thomas Kennedy, who went to work in the coal fields when he was 11 and became president of the 200,000-member United Mine Workers Union, will be buried Wednesday.

Kennedy, 75, a one-time Pennsylvania lieutenant governor, died Saturday at his home after a long illness. The cause of death was not disclosed.

His death brings to the presidency of the independent union W. A. (Tony) Boyle, 58, vice president. Boyle has, in effect, been the head of the union since Kennedy became seriously ill a year ago.

Kennedy, taciturn and composed, succeeded the volatile John L. Lewis as president in 1960. The two were close friends. Lewis, 82, is president emeritus of the big union.

Boyle will serve until the expiration of Kennedy's four-year term late in 1964.

Thief Enters Truck Twice, Obtains Coins

A thief forced his way into a parked truck twice on the weekend, obtaining an undetermined amount of change in the second entry, and possibly escaping with several cartons of cigarettes in the first instance, police reported.

The thefts occured in a parked truck owned by the National Cigarette Service and parked at the home of Robert Blatchford, 311 Garfield St., an employe, officers said. The first was reported at 2:37 a. m. Sunday and the second took place at 1:32 a. m. today, officers said.

Patrolmen Paul Carter and Karl Samples discovered the second entry, in which the thief removed two canvas bags containing an undetermined amount in nickels and quarters, police said. Entry was gained by removing a rear window and a screen inside it, officers said.

Blatchford was to check the loss and then advise police. Officers said an undetermined amount of cigarettes apparently was taken in the first entry.

Officers also are investigating the ransacking of three trucks while they were parked at the loading docks of YELP Service, Inc., on the River Rd. sometime between 10 p. m. Saturday and 8:46 a. m. Sunday.

Officers said seals on all three trucks were broken, but it was not known immediately if anything was missing from the miscellaneous cargoes. The thief removed a new pair of shoes from one of the trucks, leaving behind his own old tennis shoes when he changed into the new footgear, officers said.

Herb Buzzard, 2898 Fair St., told police Sunday afternoon a jack and a box of tools was stolen from the trunk of his car by a thief who forced entry while the vehicle was parked at his home.

W. F. Figley of Rural Ln. told police his black and white male German Shepherd dog was stolen Saturday night from his property on the River Rd., where the dog was chained.

Officers also reported five radio antennas were bent and broken on autos parked on the M. & A. Motors used car lot on Broadway. The vandalism was reported to police Sunday at 10:44 a. m.

Out Of The Air

By HAL HUMPHREY

Does International TV Depend On Sponsors?

Good ideas for television aren't hard to come by. Getting them on the air is the problem. A little more than two years ago, broadcasters in Canada, Australia, England and the United States met in Vancouver, B.C., and organized a new program exchange called Intertel.

Hal Humphrey

Each of the four member countries produces a minimum number of documentary programs and exchanges them with the others for purposes of entertainment and education. The primary objective of each program is to show "nations in transition."

Nine such documentaries have been produced so far. The ninth is a 60-minute study of modern Tahiti, which is being shown in the United States this month on the five Westinghouse Broadcasting Co. stations, approximately 60 educational TV channels (National Educational TV) and perhaps a dozen other scattered TV channels.

THE PROBLEMS of Intertel have been many. It has experienced difficulty finding enough experienced writer-producer teams to do the programs.

Sometimes history moves faster than Intertel's TV journalists can keep up with it. By the time it had done a show on Turkey, a revolution had broken out and the project had to begin all over again. It finally airs in March.

The Canadian Broadcasting Corp. in late 1961 did a documentary study of Cuba and Fidel Castro. When the CBC brass saw the result, it classed it as a "poor film" and junked it. Canadian TV critics claimed it was scuttled because of pressure from the United States. The CBC denied it.

-:-

"THERE IS AN agreement among Intertel members to avoid censoring each other's work," says Richard Pack, programming vice president for Westinghouse, which participates in the organization.

Pack reports that CBS currently is filming an Intertel program on integration in the United States. The CBS and Intertel will do well to see it gets on the air, poor film or no, otherwise there will be added suspicions of the organization's "no censorship" policy and of pressures from the United States.

Only a handful of TV channels in this country have contracted for Intertel's programs, except for the five Westinghouse and 60 NET (educational) stations. Sponsors shy away from documentaries generally, and TV stations feel it is criminal to let something go out over the air without sponsorship.

-:-

KABC-TV in Los Angeles has been running the Intertel programs as they became available, but recently lost the sponsor (a savings and loan company) who reportedly became "a little touchy" about the program on British Guiana and its prime minister, Cheddi Jagan.

"If all stations waited for sponsors on documentary shows," says Westinghouse's Pack, "90 per cent of them never would get on the air."

This raises the question again of how the new international Telstar network will fare after it becomes technically ready to transmit, via satellites, from other TV countries.

Will France, for example, find that networks here are interested only in its entertainment shows and not in its current political-social affairs?

-:-

IF THIS should turn out to be the rule, then TV audiences in the United States aren't on the threshold of the widening TV horizons they may have anticipated. After all, variety shows from London aren't much different from those on TV here now.

There is a committee of experts studying what should be done about international TV exchange via Telstar.

If they have no more luck impressing commercial TV stations with its educational value than Intertel is having, their work is finished before it really begins.

Pastor Backs Religion In Cincinnati Schools

CINCINNATI (AP)—The president of the Cincinnati Council of Churches wants more religion in public schools.

In a sermon Sunday to his congregation at Christ Episcopal Church, the Rev. Morris F. Arnold said:

"I ask you, 'Is the propagation of religion solely the job of the churches and synagogues Or is it the job of all of God's people in church, synagogue and state?

The statement differed from the views of the Greater Cincinnati Presbytery whose pastors recommended last Wednesday that prayers, bible readings and other religious observance be banned from public schools.

Ford Grants Slated

NEW YORK (AP) — The Ford Foundation today announced two grants—$12,500 to the Cincinnati Museum Association and $12,500 to the Cleveland Museum of Art —for the publication of illustrated catalogues of American fine arts collections.

Readers Get Strike Paper At Cleveland

CLEVELAND (AP) — A strike born daily newspaper appeared today on newsstands in this city where residents have been without their regular daily papers for 53 days.

The Cleveland Record, a 12-page standard size newspaper, was published by employes of the two struck papers—the Plain Dealer and the Press and News.

John Blair, editor of the new paper, said the morning paper will be published five days a week for the duration of the strike.

Initial press run was 120,000, Blair said, and the Record was being sold only on newsstands at 10 cents a copy. It will not appear Sundays, he said, or on Thursdays, when the printing plant—the Collinwood Publishing Co.—has other commitments.

The two struck newspapers had a daily circulation of about one-third of a million copies each.

In another development, a third union voted to join the strike Sunday. Members of Cleveland Photo Engravers Local 24 voted strike sanction and the international union is being asked to approve the strike, said Charles Thomson, secretary-treasurer.

Thomson said areas of disagreement involve wages, fringe benefits, hours and terms of agreement, adding that there was no major issue. He said the publishers two weeks ago offered a $7 package wage increase in a two-year contract, but "we wouldn't even look at it. It was less than what was offered the Guild three or four weeks ago."

2 Flight Instructors Receive Certificates

Two local flight instructors have been presented certificates of achievement for support of a uniform system of study for the non-professional pilot who wishes to become more proficient by learning basic instrument techniques.

Earl Herron, operator of Herron's Airport at Pughtown, and William Shroades of Lawrenceville received the awards from C. E. A. Brown, chief of Ohio's Division of Aviation at Ohio State University in Columbus.

The instructors supported a "360-Degree Rating Clinic" designed to give non-instrument pilots the skill necessary for them to qualify for a Federal Aviation Agency certificate and obtain instrument familiarity required for a private pilot certificate. Shroades instructs at Herron's Airport and Swaney Airport near East Liverpool.

20 Hurt In Bus Crash

CARMEL, Maine (AP)—Twenty persons were injured Sunday when two Greyhound buses collided head-on in light fog on Route 2 three miles west of Carmel.

Area Marine Corps Recruiter Promoted

A native of Bridgeport and a 1956 graduate of Bridgeport High School, he entered the Marine Corps in July 1946, and has been on continuous active duty since then, having served at such posts as the American Embassy in Paris, Marine Headquarters in Washington, Kaneohe Bay, Hawaii, Puerto Rico and domestic bases.

Sgt. Aubrey has been one of the Steubenville area Marine recruiters since April 1959. He resides in Bridgeport.

Out Of The Air

By HAL HUMPHREY

Does International TV Depend On Sponsors?

Good ideas for television aren't hard to come by. Getting them on the air is the problem. A little more than two years ago, broadcasters in Canada, Australia, England and the United States met in Vancouver, B.C., and organized a new program exchange called Intertel.

Hal Humphrey

Each of the four member ccuntries produces a minimum number of documentary programs and exchanges them with the others for purposes of entertainment and education. The primary objective of each program is to show "nations in transition."

Nine such documentaries have been produced so far. The ninth is a 60-minute study of modern Tahiti, which is being shown in the United States this month on the five Westinghouse Broadcasting Co. stations, approximately 60 educational TV channels (National Educational TV) and perhaps a dozen other scattered TV channels.

THE PROBLEMS of Intertel have been many. It has experienced difficulty finding enough experienced writer-producer teams to do the programs.

Sometimes history moves faster than Intertel's TV journalists can keep up with it. By the time it had done a show on Turkey, a revolution had broken out and the project had to begin all over again. It finally airs in March.

The Canadian Broadcasting Corp. in late 1961 did a documentary study of Cuba and Fidel Castro. When the CBC brass saw the result, it classed it as a "poor film" and junked it. Canadian TV critics claimed it was scuttled because of pressure from the United States. The CBC denied it.

-:-

"THERE IS AN agreement among Intertel members to avoid censoring each other's work," says Richard Pack, programming vice president for Westinghouse, which participates in the organization.

Pack reports that CBS currently is filming an Intertel program on integration in the United States. The CBS and Intertel will do well to see it gets on the air, poor film or no, otherwise there will be added suspicions of the organization's "no censorship" policy and of pressures from the United States.

Only a handful of TV channels in this country have contracted for Intertel's programs, except for the five Westinghouse and 60 NET (educational) stations. Sponsors shy away from documentaries generally, and TV stations feel it is criminal to let something go out over the air without sponsorship.

-:-

KABC-TV in Los Angeles has been running the Intertel programs as they became available, but recently lost the sponsor (a savings and loan company) who reportedly became "a little touchy" about the program on British Guiana and its prime minister, Cheddi Jagan.

"If all stations waited for sponsors on documentary shows," says Westinghouse's Pack, "90 per cent of them never would get on the air."

This raises the question again of how the new international Telstar network will fare after it becomes technically ready to transmit, via satellites, from other TV countries.

Will France, for example, find that networks here are interested only in its entertainment shows and not in its current political-social affairs?

-:-

IF THIS should turn out to be the rule, then TV audiences in the United States aren't on the threshold of the widening TV horizons they may have anticipated. After all, variety shows from London aren't much different from those on TV here now.

There is a committee of experts studying what should be done about international TV exchange via Telstar.

If they have no more luck impressing commercial TV stations with its educational value than Intertel is having, their work is finished before it really begins.

Pastor Backs Religion In Cincinnati Schools

CINCINNATI (AP)—The president of the Cincinnati Council of Churches wants more religion in public schools.

In a sermon Sunday to his congregation at Christ Episcopal Church, the Rev. Morris F. Arnold said:

"I ask you, 'Is the propagation of religion solely the job of the churches and synagogues Or is it the job of all of God's people in church, synagogue and state?

The statement differed from the views of the Greater Cincinnati Presbytery whose pastors recommended last Wednesday that prayers, bible readings and other religious observance be banned from public schools.

Ford Grants Slated

NEW YORK (AP) — The Ford Foundation today announced two grants—$12,500 to the Cincinnati Museum Association and $12,500 to the Cleveland Museum of Art —for the publication of illustrated catalogues of American fine arts collections.

Readers Get Strike Paper At Cleveland

CLEVELAND (AP) — A strike born daily newspaper appeared today on newsstands in this city where residents have been without their regular daily papers for 53 days.

The Cleveland Record, a 12-page standard size newspaper, was published by employes of the two struck papers—the Plain Dealer and the Press and News.

John Blair, editor of the new paper, said the morning paper will be published five days a week for the duration of the strike.

Initial press run was 120,000, Blair said, and the Record was being sold only on newsstands at 10 cents a copy. It will not appear Sundays, he said, or on Thursdays, when the printing plant—the Collinwood Publishing Co.—has other commitments.

The two struck newspapers had a daily circulation of about one-third of a million copies each.

In another development, a third union voted to join the strike Sunday. Members of Cleveland Photo Engravers Local 24 voted strike sanction and the international union is being asked to approve the strike, said Charles Thomson, secretary-treasurer.

Thomson said areas of disagreement involve wages, fringe benefits, hours and terms of agreement, adding that there was no major issue. He said the publishers two weeks ago offered a $7 package wage increase in a two-year contract, but "we wouldn't even look at it. It was less than what was offered the Guild three or four weeks ago."

Hints from Heloise

— By Heloise Cruse —

Dear You or You All?: Thanks from the bottom of my little, Southern heart for all the Christmas cards, remembrances, thoughts, etc.

Words can't convey my feelings. I can only say "God Bless You" for bringing happiness into our home with your love letters!

Each was read with love, tears and togetherness. We all sat down (husband, daughter and son) and read them. Oh . . . how I would love to be in your kitchen, in a sloppy Joe sweater and some old slacks drinking a cup of coffee with you. What fun we could have!

But as I am not, and you are not, just let's keep our hearts together and our problems will be understood.

Love, devotion and understanding, always and forever for so long as I live.

And . . . let's hope it's long enough to get our homes clean and we can find the time to enjoy ourselves.

Love you always . . . and health and happiness for 1963!

HELOISE.

Vitamins With Bath

DEAR HELOISE: I know you have said this before, but please say it again—so that mothers who have vitamin stains on their baby's clothing will not complain!

I do not know how mothers give their babies vitamins . . . but if they would read and learn and absorb the fact that babies can be given their vitamins while they are taking their bath, they would never have a vitamin stain on their little under shirts!

If the baby spits up or dribbles while he bathes then the mother can wash it off with soap and water while he is in his tub.

I am wondering how many others know that the skin is so much easier to wash than trying to get the stains out of a T-shirt?

MOTHER OF FOUR.

-:-

YOU are wonderful. Kiss your babies for me . . . wish I could!

HELOISE.

Keep Lettuce Green

DEAR HELOISE: My mother's way to keep lettuce from turning brown was to keep the head wrapped in a piece of white cotton cloth which was good and damp—but not wet enough for water to drip from the cloth. The cloth was redampened after each part of the lettuce was used.

Today our lettuce is usually put up in plastic bags at the market. I buy lettuce that has nice green leaves on the outside of the head. I always save one or two of these large outside leaves to place over the cut part of it when a slice has been removed for salads or to rewrap the head with after some leaves have been removed.

After using, I then replace the head in the plastic bag and close the end.

R.E.

DEAR HELOISE: I recently bought a new plastic window and shower curtain. I took down the old curtain which was still in good condition and used it as a cover for my youngest child's mattress.

MRS. H. W. BROSIN.

Woman In Hookstown Honored On Birthday

James Hubbard of Hookstown held a party Friday night in observance of the birthday anniversary of his wife, Mrs. Lynn Hubbard.

Thirty - five attended. Out-of-town guests were from Beaver, East Liverpool, Chester, Pittsburgh, Florence and Georgetown.

Hubbard was assisted by Miss Barbara Anderson, Miss Jane Nickle and his wife's mother, Mrs. Thomas Wright, and aunts, Mrs. Howard Narry and Mrs. Willis Swearingen.

Mishap Destroys Car

LISBON — A broken connecting rod went through the motor block of a 1952 auto Sunday, touching off a fire. The combination of damage left the car a total loss, firemen said. Firemen were called to the Franklin Square Rd. at 10:55 a. m. after the rod went through the block of a car driven by Ronald Bacon, 16, of 879 Market St., touched a wire and started the blaze.

County Board Fixes Budget, Returns Head

LISBON — The County Board of Education Saturday night adopted a 1963 budget of $58,989—an increase of $238 from 1962 — and returned Mrs. Freeman Strabley of Salineville as president and Olan Sanor of East Rochester R. D. 1 as vice president.

At the annual reorganization meeting in the Courthouse, the board also voted to hold its regular meetings on the third Tuesday of each Monday.

Other members of the board are Atty. Donald Elliott of Rogers, Daniel Furey of Hanoverton and Allan G. Chamberlin of Leetonia R. D. 2. Supt. James L. McBride also serves as clerk. His bond of $1,000 was continued for the year.

The new budget includes a balance of $2,588 carried over from 1962. A breakdown of the new budget, compared with 1962 allocations in parenthesis, shows:

Elementary consultant, $8,700 ($8,700); high school consultant, $8,450 ($7,383); psychologist, $8,900 ($8,550). These salaries include a $600 travel allowance.

Firemen In Glenmoor Respond To 2 Alarms

Glenmoor volunteer firemen responded to two alarms Sunday, one for a small fire in the motor of an auto and the second to remove a malfunctioning heating device from a new dwelling.

A backfire was blamed for a fire in the carburetor of a Chester resident's car Sunday afternoon at 2 along Route 30 at Substation. Firemen said the car was disabled, but damage was minor. The owner of the auto was not identified.

At 6:30 p. m., the department sent three trucks to a new home on Vale St. that had become filled with fumes and smoke from a fuel oil heater in the basement that apparently had stopped burning.

Firemen said there was a threat of explosion due to the heavy fumes. They ventilated the dwelling before taking the heater outdoors.

Citrus Grower Dies

WINTER HAVEN, Fla. (AP)—George Brown Aycrigg, 71, prominent in Florida citrus circles for 50 years, died Saturday. Aycrigg came to Winter Haven in 1913 and became one of the leading citrus growers and packing house executives in Florida. He was born in Paterson, N.J.

If you are planning to whip cream for dessert, order the cream a day or two before the time of use. Heavy cream whips best when it is not spanking-new.

Recipes sometimes specify that either grated Parmesan or Romano cheese may be used: as a rule, the former is milder in flavor than the latter.

Hints from Heloise

— By Heloise Cruse —

Dear You or You All?: Thanks from the bottom of my little, Southern heart for all the Christmas cards, remembrances, thoughts, etc.

Words can't convey my feelings. I can only say "God Bless You" for bringing happiness into our home with your love letters!

Each was read with love, tears and togetherness. We all sat down (husband, daughter and son) and read them. Oh . . . how I would love to be in your kitchen, in a sloppy Joe sweater and some old slacks drinking a cup of coffee with you. What fun we could have!

But as I am not, and you are not, just let's keep our hearts together and our problems will be understood.

Love, devotion and understanding, always and forever for so long as I live.

And . . . let's hope it's long enough to get our homes clean and we can find the time to enjoy ourselves.

Love you always . . . and health and happiness for 1963!

HELOISE.

Vitamins With Bath

DEAR HELOISE: I know you have said this before, but please say it again—so that mothers who have vitamin stains on their baby's clothing will not complain!

I do not know how mothers give their babies vitamins . . . but if they would read and learn and absorb the fact that babies can be given their vitamins while they are taking their bath, they would never have a vitamin stain on their little under shirts!

If the baby spits up or dribbles while he bathes then the mother can wash it off with soap and water while he is in his tub.

I am wondering how many others know that the skin is so much easier to wash than trying to get the stains out of a T-shirt?

MOTHER OF FOUR.

-:-

YOU are wonderful. Kiss your babies for me . . . wish I could!

HELOISE.

Keep Lettuce Green

DEAR HELOISE: My mother's way to keep lettuce from turning brown was to keep the head wrapped in a piece of white cotton cloth which was good and damp—but not wet enough for water to drip from the cloth. The cloth was redampened after each part of the lettuce was used.

Today our lettuce is usually put up in plastic bags at the market. I buy lettuce that has nice green leaves on the outside of the head. I always save one or two of these large outside leaves to place over the cut part of it when a slice has been removed for salads or to rewrap the head with after some leaves have been removed.

After using, I then replace the head in the plastic bag and close the end.

R.E.

DEAR HELOISE: I recently bought a new plastic window and shower curtain. I took down the old curtain which was still in good condition and used it as a cover for my youngest child's mattress.

MRS. H. W. BROSIN.

ARE YOU MAKING THE ANTI-ACID MISTAKE?

Important News for Every

INDIGESTION, HEARTBURN, INTESTINAL GAS SUFFERER!

Now, for the first time you can apply the brakes to stomach distress before the trouble begins. Up to now, anti-acids have been used mostly to relieve stomach upset after suffering the pangs of distress. Now, thanks to a new, natural formulation called MIAZYME you may eliminate the discomforts of indigestion, heartburn and intestinal gas caused by poor digestion of foods.

If you properly digest the food you eat, chances are you will not suffer stomach distress. This is because of the action of enzymes, manufactured in the digestive process. When these enzymes fall below par—as age increases, enzymatic action may become inadequate, or, as medical science knows, today's fast, hectic living pace can create distress caused by stomach tensions—you are apt to suffer indigestion, gas, bloating, heartburn, cramps and other uncomfortable forms of stomach upset.

Why risk making the anti-acid mistake? Just two MIAZYME capsules a day is all it takes to help eliminate the discomforts of indigestion, heartburn, gas and open the door to new vistas in food enjoyment.

MIAZYME contains no narcotics! No habit forming drugs! No harmful side effects, taken as directed. So safe, no prescription is needed! ARE YOU MAKING THE ANTI-ACID MISTAKE?

Important News for Every

INDIGESTION, HEARTBURN, INTESTINAL GAS SUFFERER!

Now, for the first time you can apply the brakes to stomach distress before the trouble begins. Up to now, anti-acids have been used mostly to relieve stomach upset after suffering the pangs of distress. Now, thanks to a new, natural formulation called MIAZYME you may eliminate the discomforts of indigestion, heartburn and intestinal gas caused by poor digestion of foods.

If you properly digest the food you eat, chances are you will not suffer stomach distress. This is because of the action of enzymes, manufactured in the digestive process. When these enzymes fall below par—as age increases, enzymatic action may become inadequate, or, as medical science knows, today's fast, hectic living pace can create distress caused by stomach tensions—you are apt to suffer indigestion, gas, bloating, heartburn, cramps and other uncomfortable forms of stomach upset.

Why risk making the anti-acid mistake? Just two MIAZYME capsules a day is all it takes to help eliminate the discomforts of indigestion, heartburn, gas and open the door to new vistas in food enjoyment.

MIAZYME contains no narcotics! No habit forming drugs! No harmful side effects, taken as directed. So safe, no prescription is needed! Get MIAZYME today at your favorite drug store and break the anti-acid routine. Try it for 6 days on a NO RISK GUARANTEE. You must be completely satisfied or your money refunded. Regular size, $1.50. George Neurohr, 45, suffered possible internal injuries and a laceration of the lower lip. He is a patient in Weirton General Hospital.

Deputies said Neurohr, driving "at an excessive rate of speed," lost control of his 1960 Buick and went over an embankment north of Johnny's Place. The car was demolished.

Neurohr was cited on a charge of failure to have his auto under control, deputies said. The accident was one of the first in 1963 investigated by the sheriff's office.

Ann Landers

ANSWERS YOUR PROBLEMS

Dear Ann Landers: I'm 24, been married less than a year, and I'm ready to give my bride back to her father.

Things I once considered cute now get on my nerves. When she used to get mad at me and pout I thought it was darling. Now I'd like to paste her one in the mush and put her lower lip back where it belongs.

Last night we were watching TV. I sat through two hours of real junk because she wanted to watch certain shows. Then I said, "Okay, now I want to see 'Lassie'." She said, "That's not a real dog. it's a person in an animal outfit and I don't want to see it."

I insisted on getting the channel so she pulled the plug out of the wall and said, "All right, then let's both read."

I have never hit a woman in my life but I came close that night. Should I talk to her parents: — DUTCH.

-:-

Dear Dutch: No. Talk to a marriage counselor — together. If you two have been married less than a year you're still in the adjustment period. Maybe you do a few things which irritate her and she retaliates via the boob tube. A professional counselor can provide you with unbiased and useful advice.

Rotten Advice

Dear Ann: Are you on vacation or what? Who gave that rotten advice blaming the parents of young boys who get into trouble? And that idiotic phrase from your reader about "robbing a young girl of her maidenhood." He's got to be kidding. In most cases this could scarcely be called a robbery.

During the 11 years I've been a juvenile officer I've seen dozens of these "innocent little shrinking violets." Most of them at 16 have been with so many boys they can't remember half their names. When they get into trouble they point a finger at some dumb yokel who had too much to drink so the court takes her word against his.

And what about the tramps who get pregnant intentionally — so they can wring a nice settlement out of a young guy who has rich parents, or a married man who can't afford the publicity?

Since you frequently boast that you print all shades of opinions I'd like to see you print this.— SEEN IT ALL.

Dear Seen: Having a baby out of wedlock is a tough way to make money. This maneuver (extreme, you must agree) is not a favorite of the experienced tramp. Only a young and stupid girl would try it. Incidentally, Bub, vacation or not, every word that appears in this column is written by me. When I do take a vacation the work is done before I leave.

Woman's Privilege

Dear Ann: I'm a widow 50 years of age who is dating a fine man whose wife died in 1959. He has three children under 15.

The man has asked me to marry him and I have said yes. I'm not sure now that I can go through with it. The deceased woman's clothes are hanging in the closet. Her personal belongings are still in the dresser drawers. The furniture is exactly as she left it. There are pictures of her in every room.

I love the man and want to marry him but will I feel as if I am living with a ghost? I hesitate to express my feelings for fear of appearing disrespectful to her memory. Please, help. — KATHERINE.

Dear Katherine: No second wife should move into a home under the conditions you describe. Have a frank talk with your clergyman and ask him to speak to your fiance.

Of course you should leave the pictures and furniture as they are (for a while) but the clothing and personal belongings of his first wife should be disposed of before you move in.

---

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of The Review, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Clevelander Dies In Street Beating

CLEVELAND (AP)—Detectives today sought possible witnesses who may have seen a Cleveland Heights executive suffer a fatal beating on the East Side over the weekend.

The victim, Thomas O'Connor, 47, was district sales manager for Raybestos - Manhattan Inc., with offices in suburban Fairview. He died at home early Sunday. Authorities said his abdomen showed severe bruises and his face was scratched.

O'Connor's wife said her husband had told of being grabbed by two men on Cleveland's East Side Friday night. She quoted him as saying one of the men held him while the other kicked and beat him.

Cleveland police reported O'Connor was picked up by a patrol car early Saturday morning in the lobby of the Doanbrook Hotel and was taken to Mount Sanai Hospital. He declined treatment at the hospital.

O'Connor had $7 in his wallet, which indicated robbery was not the motive, police said. His wife reported that ordinarily he did not carry large sums of money.

Ford Sets Grant For 'Interns' At Ohio Legislature

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Ford Foundation in New York announced a $105,000 grant to Ohio State University today to launch a program in which graduate students will serve as aides to the Ohio General Assembly.

The project, to be begun as soon as practicable, will run through 1967. It calls for up to six interns to work with agencies, offices or members of the legislature.

The interns will be assigned by Lauren A. Glosser, director of the Ohio Legislative Service Commission. The commission will provide half the cost of stipends for the interns. They will get $450 per month over a 10-month period annually.

Dr. Frederic Heimberger, Ohio State vice president and dean of faculties, requested the foundation grant last November. He says the purpose of the program is "to provide opportunities for graduate students of Ohio colleges and universities to profit educationally from learning experiences resulting from day-to-day work with the General Assembly . . . its agencies or its members."

Ohio State will be responsible for administering the project and appointing the interns, but qualified graduate students may be selected from any college or university in the state.

A 10-member committee will advise Ohio State on management of the endeavor. The committee will include five members from the university, at least two from other schools, Glosser and one member from each house of the Assembly.

School Aide Named

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Paul W. Patton of Westerville has been appointed field associate for the Midwest Program of Airborne Television Instruction. Patton, a New Concord native, will work at Ohio State University as a consultant to Central Ohio schools.

More than 340 Ohio schools and colleges receive the telecasts beamed from an airplane that flies 23,000 feet above Montpelier, Ind.

Fair Future Seen For North Ohio By Savings Unit

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Central Ohio's 1963 business outlook in the financial field is good, the executive committee of the Ohio Savings and Loan League said today.

But the outlook in Northern Ohio is just fair, and prospects in southern counties are just "so-so," the committee added.

Joseph E. Linville, executive secretary, said these forecasts were drawn from viewpoints of committee members who represent 575 savings and loan associations throughout Ohio.

Linville said members were of the opinion that further restrictions on savings and lending will seriously impede the industry's growth and hamper the state's economy.

"Several committee members said in their annual forecast that the full impact of higher income taxes imposed by Congress last year has not been felt by the industry and won't be for several months," he said.

The death of Joseph is related at the end of the last chapter of Genesis in the Bible.

Ann Landers

ANSWERS YOUR PROBLEMS

Dear Ann Landers: I'm 24, been married less than a year, and I'm ready to give my bride back to her father.

Things I once considered cute now get on my nerves. When she used to get mad at me and pout I thought it was darling. Now I'd like to paste her one in the mush and put her lower lip back where it belongs.

Last night we were watching TV. I sat through two hours of real junk because she wanted to watch certain shows. Then I said, "Okay, now I want to see 'Lassie'." She said, "That's not a real dog, it's a person in an animal outfit and I don't want to see it."

I insisted on getting the channel so she pulled the plug out of the wall and said, "All right, then let's both read."

I have never hit a woman in my life but I came close that night. Should I talk to her parents: — DUTCH.

-:-

Dear Dutch: No. Talk to a marriage counselor — together. If you two have been married less than a year you're still in the adjustment period. Maybe you do a few things which irritate her and she retaliates via the boob tube. A professional counselor can provide you with unbiased and useful advice.

Rotten Advice

Dear Ann: Are you on vacation or what? Who gave that rotten advice blaming the parents of young boys who get into trouble? And that idiotic phrase from your reader about "robbing a young girl of her maidenhood." He's got to be kidding. In most cases this could scarcely be called a robbery.

During the 11 years I've been a juvenile officer I've seen dozens of these "innocent little shrinking violets." Most of them at 16 have been with so many boys they can't remember half their names. When they get into trouble they point a finger at some dumb yokel who had too much to drink so the court takes her word against his.

And what about the tramps who get pregnant intentionally — so they can wring a nice settlement out of a young guy who has rich parents, or a married man who can't afford the publicity?

Since you frequently boast that you print all shades of opinions I'd like to see you print this.— SEEN IT ALL.

Dear Seen: Having a baby out of wedlock is a tough way to make money. This maneuver (extreme, you must agree) is not a favorite of the experienced tramp. Only a young and stupid girl would try it. Incidentally, Bub, vacation or not, every word that appears in this column is written by me. When I do take a vacation the work is done before I leave.

Woman's Privilege

Dear Ann: I'm a widow 50 years of age who is dating a fine man whose wife died in 1959. He has three children under 15.

The man has asked me to marry him and I have said yes. I'm not sure now that I can go through with it. The deceased woman's clothes are hanging in the closet. Her personal belongings are still in the dresser drawers. The furniture is exactly as she left it. There are pictures of her in every room.

I love the man and want to marry him but will I feel as if I am living with a ghost? I hesitate to express my feelings for fear of appearing disrespectful to her memory. Please, help. — KATHERINE.

Dear Katherine: No second wife should move into a home under the conditions you describe. Have a frank talk with your clergyman and ask him to speak to your fiance.

Of course you should leave the pictures and furniture as they are (for a while) but the clothing and personal belongings of his first wife should be disposed of before you move in.

---

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of The Review, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Clevelander Dies In Street Beating

CLEVELAND (AP)—Detectives today sought possible witnesses who may have seen a Cleveland Heights executive suffer a fatal beating on the East Side over the weekend.

The victim, Thomas O'Connor, 47, was district sales manager for Raybestos - Manhattan Inc., with offices in suburban Fairview. He died at home early Sunday. Authorities said his abdomen showed severe bruises and his face was scratched.

O'Connor's wife said her husband had told of being grabbed by two men on Cleveland's East Side Friday night. She quoted him as saying one of the men held him while the other kicked and beat him.

Cleveland police reported O'Connor was picked up by a patrol car early Saturday morning in the lobby of the Doanbrook Hotel and was taken to Mount Sanai Hospital. He declined treatment at the hospital.

O'Connor had $7 in his wallet, which indicated robbery was not the motive, police said. His wife reported that ordinarily he did not carry large sums of money.

Ford Sets Grant For 'Interns' At Ohio Legislature

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Ford Foundation in New York announced a $105,000 grant to Ohio State University today to launch a program in which graduate students will serve as aides to the Ohio General Assembly.

The project, to be begun as soon as practicable, will run through 1967. It calls for up to six interns to work with agencies, offices or members of the legislature.

The interns will be assigned by Lauren A. Glosser, director of the Ohio Legislative Service Commission. The commission will provide half the cost of stipends for the interns. They will get $450 per month over a 10-month period annually.

Dr. Frederic Heimberger, Ohio State vice president and dean of faculties, requested the foundation grant last November. He says the purpose of the program is "to provide opportunities for graduate students of Ohio colleges and universities to profit educationally from learning experiences resulting from day-to-day work with the General Assembly . . . its agencies or its members."

Ohio State will be responsible for administering the project and appointing the interns, but qualified graduate students may be selected from any college or university in the state.

A 10-member committee will advise Ohio State on management of the endeavor. The committee will include five members from the university, at least two from other schools, Glosser and one member from each house of the Assembly.

Fair Future Seen For North Ohio By Savings Unit

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Central Ohio's 1963 business outlook in the financial field is good, the executive committee of the Ohio Savings and Loan League said today.

But the outlook in Northern Ohio is just fair, and prospects in southern counties are just "so-so," the committee added.

Joseph E. Linville, executive secretary, said these forecasts were drawn from viewpoints of committee members who represent 575 savings and loan associations throughout Ohio.

Linville said members were of the opinion that further restrictions on savings and lending will seriously impede the industry's growth and hamper the state's economy.

"Several committee members said in their annual forecast that the full impact of higher income taxes imposed by Congress last year has not been felt by the industry and won't be for several months," he said.

The death of Joseph is related at the end of the last chapter of Genesis in the Bible.

'Bossa Nova' Swings Into Home Decorating

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

Anyone for the Bossa Nova? In the home, that is.

A new method of color coordination just introduced for the home takes its color cues from the Brazilian dance.

Light, bright, airy, the method of color integration of rugs, upholstery and drapery fabrics will appeal to those who have "two left hands" when it comes to decorating their homes.

The Bossa Nova colors, as they are called, comprise 75 hues from five primary and secondary colors. The idea is to keep you in step no matter how you mix and match them.

The easy - does - it coordination plan has been made available for the first time to retailers by six companies, all home fashions divisions of Burlington Industries, which combined their efforts to coordinate the textiles.

There is also easy - care propaganda — the brightest - hued nylon rug can be washed on the floor with an ordinary floor mop.

Interior designer Patricia Harvey illustrated the compatibility of the colors by whipping up some luscious room settings with flamenco (red), emeraldo (green), mango (orange), marino (blue) and dorado (yellow).

All the yummy colors, even the brightest South American hues may be used in the home, even though grubby little hands and muddy feet inhabit the house, she explains.

In a foyer, she used a dirt-repellant (Scotch-guard) red-and-white striped mattress ticking on the wall, a flamenco nylon rug (mop-washable) on the floor and she covered a tired lamp base and shade with red washable vinyl. The one chair in the area had a black - and - white zebra striped cushion in a special plush washable fabric.

In the library area she placed green-gray bookshelves of simulated bamboo of her own design against a wall background of a wide-striped yellow and white fabric. The stripes were striated with lurex.

She used a yellow nylon rug on the floor and a narrow stripe mattress ticking of the same yellow in a diagonal stripe as a border for the vinyl window shade and the draperies. A lounge chair was in yellow vinyl.

"Here's a sunny, cheerful room for a man. He can kick his shoes off and practice his golfing shots if he likes, without worrying about soiling anything," says Miss Harvey.

In another area she illustrated how you can be high-style and practical by using orange vinyl as a dado along the wall and covering for two doors.

Over the doors, she used a narrow wood molding painted the same color as the door frame, one of the yellow golds. Striped ticking of orange and pale gold was used above the dado. A chair was slipcovered in the same mattress ticking.

Stripes used on the wall may be used in panels, she points out, to make application easier. In that case a narrow wood molding would be appropriate.

She suggests that vivid colors are best suited to rooms that you don't live in all the time, such as foyers, dining rooms, bathrooms.

"But many people have difficulty using colors even after you present them with a fool-proof plan," she points out. "It's one reason why professional decorators will always be in style."

Tips Offered On Finishing 'Extra' Room

By ANDY LANG
AP Newsfeatures

When finishing an extra room — whether in the attic, basement or anywhere else — you have an opportunity to exercise your imagination.

If the structural portion of the project is sound, there's no reason why you can't work out different effects to suit your fancy.

Nobody is suggesting that you put up four walls of four different types of materials and designs.

But you can create an interesting result if one of those walls is unlike the other three. We recently saw one such installation where three of the walls were made of 4-by-8 sheets of hardwood plywood. The fourth wall was covered with a plastic - faced hardboard which caught your attention the moment you entered the room.

Let's assume you decided to install flexible plastic tiles in the kitchen. Instead of selecting a single color and design, you might try choosing the bamboo-effect tiles for three walls and the mahogany - finish tiles for the fourth.

Putting up wood paneling? How about installing the panels horizontally instead of vertically, if not on all the walls, then on one of them?

Beside the different effect, there's an extra dividend. If the wooden studs have been erected evenly, you can do away with the installation of furring strips over the studs. The panels can be nailed directly into the studs when placed horizontally, which means a considerable savings in both time and costs.

Here's how a friend of ours solved a major problem and at the same time produced a luxury result.

His original idea was to finish a basement room with 4-by-8 sheets of plywood. But the basement ceiling height varied from 7 feet 2 inches to 6 feet 11 inches, a fairly common condiiton because basement floors often slant toward a drain.

This meant that each piece of plywood would have to be cut at the top. After some consideration, he decided to place the plywood sheets lengthwise; that is, with the 8-foot side running horizontal, the 4-foot side running vertical. He used squares of striated plywood to fill the space above the plywood sheets.

By selecting 16-inch squares, he was able to nail them directly into the studs, which were set 16 inches apart on center. Thus, when he got to the last row of squares, he was able to cut them easily, compared with the otherwise arduous task of cutting the tops off large plywood sheets. Most important of all, his room was strikingly different.

If you're thinking about using gypsum board, remember that it now comes in many different styles and shapes. One type has V-grooved joints, eliminating the necessity of filling the joints with patching cement.

Post Office Job Set

CHICAGO (AP)—Dietterle and Van Husen Construction Co., New Castle, Pa., will repair and expand the Girard, Ohio, post office.

The regional office of the General Services Administration announced Sunday that the firm has been awarded a $133,400 contract for the project.

HERE'S A WAY to make the railing around the top of a stairwell an important, useful item. Low wall of tongue-and-groove western red cedar panels replaces usual open rail. Added book shelves take little space, contribute function and beauty.

Color Predictions Made By Leading Decorators

NEW YORK — A wide variety of paint colors and color combinations, some subdued and gentle, others dramatic and vibrant, will be popular for home interiors in 1963, according to a recent survey of prominent decorators throughout the United States made by the National Paint, Varnish and Lacquer Association.

James Amster of New York casts his vote for olive green, but notes that all greens are gaining popularity. Blue and green in combination will remain a favorite. An innovation in 1963 will be dark walls or bright walls.

Indian pink will be used with accent shades of gold, yellow, black or white. Says Amster: "The Indian pink was brought to our attention by Mrs. Kennedy's trip to India — it's a favorite there." Orange by itself is on the decline, he says.

Everett Brown, who has offices in both San Francisco and New York, predicts that blues and greens will be stronger than ever. He also states that dark walls are coming back. Earth colors and bronzes are on the upswing, while orange and pink as a combination are waning.

California decorator, A. Allen Dizik's predictions for '63 are, in this order, gold, bronze-green, magenta-red, emerald-green, pastel blue, pastel peach, pearl gray. Accent colors, in order, are medium oyster white, tangerine-orange, sharp yellow, black.

J. Frederic Lohmann of New York forecasts the popularity of "hot pastels", with luminous vibrants to add character. Two new colors that will make their mark are curry and spice, he predicts.

Ellen Lehman McCluskey of New York notes that inky blue with white will be a dominant color or combination. Walls will be painted claret or mustard. Darker wall tones are returning, possibly because of the influence of the White House and a subsequent return to the elegance of the Empire, Regency and Federal Periods.

Chicago's Karl Steinhauser also predicts the return of dark, dual-tone colors. White with strong or brilliant accent colors will be used. Other newsworthy colors are orange-yellow (butterscotch), deep yellow, olive green, vibrant ink blues and royal purples.

Ruth Strauss of New York favors white with tints — such as oyster white, or white tinted with pink, green, blue. Other colors are champagne, sand, mustard, greyed citron, apricot, cantaloupe, coral, salmon. All greens will be grayed down, such as, bronze, olive. Blues will be warmer — hyacinth blue, blue mist, bluebell — and will harmonize with purple and magenta in fabrics.

H. W. Grieve of Los Angeles, who decorated an office at the Seattle World's Fair in white with cobalt blue, predicts that the "dark cavern" look of most offices will disappear shortly. The new paint materials can be easily maintained and are practical so that lighter colors will definitely come in for office use, Grieve stated.

9,300 New Dog Tags Obtained By Deadline

Issuance of 1963 county dog licenses totaled 9,300 at the deadline Saturday noon, Auditor Kenneth Bell reported today at Lisbon.

The total is 2,700 under the number issued at the deadline a year ago, the auditor said. However, clerks still are processing mail received Friday and Saturday, Bell said. The total is not expected to hit 12,000, as it did in 1962, the auditor reported.

With passage of the deadline, a $1 penalty will be added to the usual $2 license fee.

President Leads Guests On Tour, But Hits Problem

WASHINGTON (AP)—Comedians George Burns and Carol Channing did some of their routines. Actor Kirk Douglas sang. Members of President Kennedy's family joined in a rousing chorus of "The Wearin' of the Green."

That's how President and Mrs. Kennedy and their guests spent Saturday night in the White House after heavy fog forced them to cancel their planned trip to Middleburg, Va., for the weekend, the Washington Post said today.

The evening began with a quiet, informal dinner that included President and Mrs. Kennedy, her sister Princess Lee Radziwill, British Ambassador and Lady David Ormsby Gore, Burns, Miss Channing, her husband Charles Lowe and accompanist Bob Hudson, and Robert Coe of the Post.

High point of the evening, Coe reported, was the President's invitation to the group to see Abraham Lincoln's bed.

"The President led the way," Coe wrote, "opened the door a crack, suddenly closed it with his finger on his lips:

"'Sorry,'" he said. "'the tour's off. Mother's in Lincoln's bed.'"

Heater Fumes Blamed As Woman's Stricken

A Beechwood woman was discharged from City Hospital Saturday, where she had been detained overnight for treatment after being overcome by fumes from an unvented bathroom heater.

Mrs. Raymond Rambo, 1042 Rubicon St., had been hospitalized early Friday night after being given oxygen at home by city firemen, who were summoned by police.

Patrolman S. E. Hayes said when he arrived at the home in response to a call Mrs. Rambo's father was giving her air after breaking a glass in a door to gain entrance to the home. The fumes came from the uvented heater, he said.

That was the first most of the film colony knew of her presence here. She prefers to live in Spain.

The 40-year old actress entered Cedars of Lebanon Hospital Friday, had surgery that day and was released Saturday night.

Book Shelves Can Be Tied To Stairwell

PORTLAND, Ore. — If statistics mean anything, more Americans are buying and reading good books today than ever before.

This, of course, brings storage problems, because a rapidly expanding library has to be housed somewhere. It's all right to stash the currently read volumes on the coffee table or nightstand, but the rest deserve proper shelves.

In the average home where bookcases are already overflowing and all available wall space has been spoken for, where can new library shelves go? Some smart designers suggest the stairwell as a good possibility. And it's a good thought.

For instance, many homes today are split-level or have a daylight basement. In these homes, the stairwell is a prominent feature, located in entrance hall or family room.

Because it's essentially just a hole in the floor with stairs going down to the lower level, something decorative has to be done for a waist-high railing around the stairwell opening. Here's where the bookshelves come in. Why not build a solid screen of tongue-and-groove western red cedar panel boards for the railing, then build book shelves over that? The shelves can go two or three tiers high with the top shelf perhaps used for art objects as well as books. Shelves also can be cedar boards, one or two inches thick, depending on their length and load.

On an average, books require a shelf only eight inches wide, so it's easy to see how compact this installation will be. Yet it will be a truly decorative and distinctive feature of the home.

In a home with a traditionally-styled staircase, such as for a two-story house, the book shelves can be built right into the banister, marching up the stairs. Most stairways can comfortably spare the needed eight inches of width —and the home gains character, plus needed book space.

With its central location, a stairwell bookcase is ideal for the popular library. More hefty tones can go in the regular bookcases.

Tips Are Offered To Waterproof Basement Walls

Question: An epoxy plastic waterproofing compound has been recommended to me for leaky basement walls. Can you tell me something about it? Will it go on over painted walls?

Answer: This is the material often used for waterproofing the outside of boat hulls. It will do an excellent job. But enough to do an entire basement might cost more than you planned on spending. Better check the prices if you plan on waterproofing all the walls rather than just a section or two.

It will adhere firmly over paint if the paint is in good condition. Loose or crumbly paint must be scraped off before the compound is applied.

All dirt and grease must be removed and the wall must be perfectly dry. The compound dries rather quickly, too much can not be mixed at one time.

Application is by brush. More than one coat is recommended for severe leaky areas.

After the compound has hardened, it can be painted with rubber-base paint if desired. It is important that the manufacturer's instructions for this product be followed to the letter.

Plaster Patching Calls For Care

Question: There are some large cracks in the plaster walls of an old house we recently purchased. Can you tell us how to go about patching them?

Answer: Before you start, be sure all loose plaster is removed from the areas to be repaired.

Undercut the edges of the plaster so that the new material will take hold securely. Wet the opening thoroughly. This is to prevent the new plaster from drying out too quickly.

Using patching plaster, follow the manufacturer's directions for mixing. Since patching plaster sets fairly quickly, do not mix too much at a time. Fill the opening with the mixture, being sure to pack it down firmly.

The patch should be slightly above the surrounding area after you have smoothed it with a putty knife or trowel. When it has dried, sand it down.

The patch should be moistened a couple of times a day for several days. If the entire wall is being repainted, be sure all such patches are coated with a wall sealer.

'Bossa Nova' Swings Into Home Decorating

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

Anyone for the Bossa Nova? In the home, that is.

A new method of color coordination just introduced for the home takes its color cues from the Brazilian dance.

Light, bright, airy, the method of color integration of rugs, upholstery and drapery fabrics will appeal to those who have "two left hands" when it comes to decorating their homes.

The Bossa Nova colors, as they are called, comprise 75 hues from five primary and secondary colors. The idea is to keep you in step no matter how you mix and match them.

The easy - does - it coordination plan has been made available for the first time to retailers by six companies, all home fashions divisions of Burlington Industries, which combined their efforts to coordinate the textiles.

There is also easy - care propaganda — the brightest - hued nylon rug can be washed on the floor with an ordinary floor mop.

Interior designer Patricia Harvey illustrated the compatibility of the colors by whipping up some luscious room settings with flamenco (red), emeraldo (green), mango (orange), marino (blue) and dorado (yellow).

All the yummy colors, even the brightest South American hues may be used in the home, even though grubby little hands and muddy feet inhabit the house, she explains.

In a foyer, she used a dirt-repellant (Scotch-guard) red-and-white striped mattress ticking on the wall, a flamenco nylon rug (mop-washable) on the floor and she covered a tired lamp base and shade with red washable vinyl. The one chair in the area had a black - and - white zebra striped cushion in a special plush washable fabric.

In the library area she placed green-gray bookshelves of simulated bamboo of her own design against a wall background of a wide-striped yellow and white fabric. The stripes were striated with lurex.

She used a yellow nylon rug on the floor and a narrow stripe mattress ticking of the same yellow in a diagonal stripe as a border for the vinyl window shade and the draperies. A lounge chair was in yellow vinyl.

"Here's a sunny, cheerful room for a man. He can kick his shoes off and practice his golfing shots if he likes, without worrying about soiling anything," says Miss Harvey.

In another area she illustrated how you can be high-style and practical by using orange vinyl as a dado along the wall and covering for two doors.

Over the doors, she used a narrow wood molding painted the same color as the door frame, one of the yellow golds. Striped ticking of orange and pale gold was used above the dado. A chair was slipcovered in the same mattress ticking.

Stripes used on the wall may be used in panels, she points out, to make application easier. In that case a narrow wood molding would be appropriate.

She suggests that vivid colors are best suited to rooms that you don't live in all the time, such as foyers, dining rooms, bathrooms.

"But many people have difficulty using colors even after you present them with a fool-proof plan," she points out. "It's one reason why professional decorators will always be in style."

Tips Offered On Finishing 'Extra' Room

By ANDY LANG
AP Newsfeatures

When finishing an extra room — whether in the attic, basement or anywhere else — you have an opportunity to exercise your imagination.

If the structural portion of the project is sound, there's no reason why you can't work out different effects to suit your fancy.

Nobody is suggesting that you put up four walls of four different types of materials and designs.

But you can create an interesting result if one of those walls is unlike the other three. We recently saw one such installation where three of the walls were made of 4-by-8 sheets of hardwood plywood. The fourth wall was covered with a plastic - faced hardboard which caught your attention the moment you entered the room.

Let's assume you decided to install flexible plastic tiles in the kitchen. Instead of selecting a single color and design, you might try choosing the bamboo-effect tiles for three walls and the mahogany - finish tiles for the fourth.

Putting up wood paneling? How about installing the panels horizontally instead of vertically, if not on all the walls, then on one of them?

Beside the different effect, there's an extra dividend. If the wooden studs have been erected evenly, you can do away with the installation of furring strips over the studs. The panels can be nailed directly into the studs when placed horizontally, which means a considerable savings in both time and costs.

Here's how a friend of ours solved a major problem and at the same time produced a luxury result.

His original idea was to finish a basement room with 4-by-8 sheets of plywood. But the basement ceiling height varied from 7 feet 2 inches to 6 feet 11 inches, a fairly common condiiton because basement floors often slant toward a drain.

This meant that each piece of plywood would have to be cut at the top. After some consideration, he decided to place the plywood sheets lengthwise; that is, with the 8-foot side running horizontal, the 4-foot side running vertical. He used squares of striated plywood to fill the space above the plywood sheets.

By selecting 16-inch squares, he was able to nail them directly into the studs, which were set 16 inches apart on center. Thus, when he got to the last row of squares, he was able to cut them easily, compared with the otherwise arduous task of cutting the tops off large plywood sheets. Most important of all, his room was strikingly different.

If you're thinking about using gypsum board, remember that it now comes in many different styles and shapes. One type has V-grooved joints, eliminating the necessity of filling the joints with patching cement.

Color Predictions Made By Leading Decorators

NEW YORK — A wide variety of paint colors and color combinations, some subdued and gentle, others dramatic and vibrant, will be popular for home interiors in 1963, according to a recent survey of prominent decorators throughout the United States made by the National Paint, Varnish and Lacquer Association.

James Amster of New York casts his vote for olive green, but notes that all greens are gaining popularity. Blue and green in combination will remain a favorite. An innovation in 1963 will be dark walls or bright walls.

Indian pink will be used with accent shades of gold, yellow, black or white. Says Amster: "The Indian pink was brought to our attention by Mrs. Kennedy's trip to India — it's a favorite there." Orange by itself is on the decline, he says.

Everett Brown, who has offices in both San Francisco and New York, predicts that blues and greens will be stronger than ever. He also states that dark walls are coming back. Earth colors and bronzes are on the upswing, while orange and pink as a combination are waning.

California decorator, A. Allen Dizik's predictions for '63 are, in this order, gold, bronze-green, magenta-red, emerald-green, pastel blue, pastel peach, pearl gray. Accent colors, in order, are medium oyster white, tangerine-orange, sharp yellow, black.

J. Frederic Lohmann of New York forecasts the popularity of "hot pastels", with luminous vibrants to add character. Two new colors that will make their mark are curry and spice, he predicts.

Ellen Lehman McCluskey of New York notes that inky blue with white will be a dominant color combination. Walls will be painted claret or mustard. Darker wall tones are returning, possibly because of the influence of the White House and a subsequent return to the elegance of the Empire, Regency and Federal Periods.

Chicago's Karl Steinhauser also predicts the return of dark, dual-tone colors. White with strong or brilliant accent colors will be used. Other newsworthy colors are orange-yellow (butterscotch), deep yellow, olive green, vibrant ink blues and royal purples.

Ruth Strauss of New York favors white with tints — such as oyster white, or white tinted with pink, green, blue. Other colors are champagne, sand, mustard, greyed citron, apricot, cantaloupe, coral, salmon. All greens will be grayed down, such as, bronze, olive. Blues will be warmer — hyacinth blue, blue mist, bluebell — and will harmonize with purple and magenta in fabrics.

H. W. Grieve of Los Angeles, who decorated an office at the Seattle World's Fair in white with cobalt blue, predicts that the "dark cavern" look of most offices will disappear shortly. The new paint materials can be easily maintained and are practical so that lighter colors will definitely come in for office use, Grieve stated.

9,300 New Dog Tags Obtained By Deadline

Issuance of 1963 county dog licenses totaled 9,300 at the deadline Saturday noon, Auditor Kenneth Bell reported today at Lisbon.

The total is 2,700 under the number issued at the deadline a year ago, the auditor said. However, clerks still are processing mail received Friday and Saturday, Bell said. The total is not expected to hit 12,000, as it did in 1962, the auditor reported.

With passage of the deadline, a $1 penalty will be added to the usual $2 license fee.

President Leads Guests On Tour, But Hits Problem

WASHINGTON (AP)—Comedians George Burns and Carol Channing did some of their routines. Actor Kirk Douglas sang. Members of President Kennedy's family joined in a rousing chorus of "The Wearin' of the Green."

That's how President and Mrs. Kennedy and their guests spent Saturday night in the White House after heavy fog forced them to cancel their planned trip to Middleburg, Va., for the weekend, the Washington Post said today.

The evening began with a quiet, informal dinner that included President and Mrs. Kennedy, her sister Princess Lee Radziwill, British Ambassador and Lady David Ormsby Gore, Burns, Miss Channing, her husband Charles Lowe and accompanist Bob Hudson, and Robert Coe of the Post.

High point of the evening, Coe reported, was the President's invitation to the group to see Abraham Lincoln's bed.

"The President led the way," Coe wrote, "opened the door a crack, suddenly closed it with his finger on his lips:

Book Shelves Can Be Tied To Stairwell

PORTLAND, Ore. — If statistics mean anything, more Americans are buying and reading good books today than ever before.

This, of course, brings storage problems, because a rapidly expanding library has to be housed somewhere. It's all right to stash the currently read volumes on the coffee table or nightstand, but the rest deserve proper shelves.

In the average home where bookcases are already overflowing and all available wall space has been spoken for, where can new library shelves go? Some smart designers suggest the stairwell as a good possibility. And it's a good thought.

For instance, many homes today are split-level or have a daylight basement. In these homes, the stairwell is a prominent feature, located in entrance hall or family room.

Because it's essentially just a hole in the floor with stairs going down to the lower level, something decorative has to be done for a waist-high railing around the stairwell opening. Here's where the bookshelves come in. Why not build a solid screen of tongue-and-groove western red cedar panel boards for the railing, then build book shelves over that? The shelves can go two or three tiers high with the top shelf perhaps used for art objects as well as books. Shelves also can be cedar boards, one or two inches thick, depending on their length and load.

On an average, books require a shelf only eight inches wide, so it's easy to see how compact this installation will be. Yet it will be a truly decorative and distinctive feature of the home.

In a home with a traditionally-styled staircase, such as for a two-story house, the book shelves can be built right into the banister, marching up the stairs. Most stairways can comfortably spare the needed eight inches of width —and the home gains character, plus needed book space.

With its central location, a stairwell bookcase is ideal for the popular library. More hefty tones can go in the regular bookcases.

Tips Are Offered To Waterproof Basement Walls

Question: An epoxy plastic waterproofing compound has been recommended to me for leaky basement walls. Can you tell me something about it? Will it go on over painted walls?

Answer: This is the material often used for waterproofing the outside of boat hulls. It will do an excellent job. But enough to do an entire basement might cost more than you planned on spending. Better check the prices if you plan on waterproofing all the walls rather than just a section or two.

It will adhere firmly over paint if the paint is in good condition. Loose or crumbly paint must be scraped off before the compound is applied.

All dirt and grease must be removed and the wall must be perfectly dry. The compound dries rather quickly, too much can not be mixed at one time.

Application is by brush. More than one coat is recommended for severe leaky areas.

After the compound has hardened, it can be painted with rubber-base paint if desired. It is important that the manufacturer's instructions for this product be followed to the letter.

Plaster Patching Calls For Care

Question: There are some large cracks in the plaster walls of an old house we recently purchased. Can you tell us how to go about patching them?

Answer: Before you start, be sure all loose plaster is removed from the areas to be repaired.

Undercut the edges of the plaster so that the new material will take hold securely. Wet the opening thoroughly. This is to prevent the new plaster from drying out too quickly.

Using patching plaster, follow the manufacturer's directions for mixing. Since patching plaster sets fairly quickly, do not mix too much at a time. Fill the opening with the mixture, being sure to pack it down firmly.

The patch should be slightly above the surrounding area after you have smoothed it with a putty knife or trowel. When it has dried, sand it down.

The patch should be moistened a couple of times a day for several days. If the entire wall is being repainted, be sure all such patches are coated with a wall sealer.

Older Homes Hold Many Problems

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

Now that outdoor activity is limited, many home owners take time out to brood indoors about their homes.

Everything is seen in a new light. Cracks in the ceiling are observed and even the bareness and sameness of floors get on one's nerves.

"We have some old beat - up floors in our upstairs rooms." writes one homemaker. "They are the brown-painted kind, old-fashioned and ugly. My husband says that it would be a big job to scrape them, and impossible to live with as the bedrooms are very tiny and it wouldn't be easy to move the furniture around as we worked. He doesn't think that colored paints would hold up on the floor, but I certainly think that whatever happened to them would be better than having our present floors which makes the rooms look dreary. . ."

There are some very good deck paints available in many colors that would be more cheerful than that old-time floor paint. Cardinal red is especially good when put over brown floors. If just one color is applied, the effect is antique-red.

There are other colors that may be selected. Floor colors may be mixed from the basic white to which oil paints are added as paint stores or painters can advise you. Many people like black floors. These can look chic even in the living room.

"WHEN WE brought our present home, I was so eager to get it I didn't notice the unsightly registers in the floor. There are three in the living room and my rugs are so large they would almost cover them completely. It means I must cut the rugs down, and we are also stuck with an unsightly look. Is there any solution to this problem?" writes a reader.

One thing that might save the situation is if the register grids are larger than needed as seems to be the case in many old homes. Lift the grids and size up the aperture. Measure it and then see if you can get a perforated plate that is just slightly larger than the aperture.

When you have determined that, size up the floor boards that would need to be inserged in the space that is left. Conventional boards that are laid random width could be laid easily by a do-it-yourselfer or professional carpenter.

If there are registers that do not seem to be giving heat, it's possible they could be eliminated completely. Many times registers were put in for one type of furnace, and then additional registers put in because heat was required in another area. Though they were shut off in the basement, the original ones were not removed from the floors.

I would not cut the rug until you have determined the area the registers would require. Many people who have wall-to-wall carpet move their registers from the floor to the wall. Ask your furnace man and a metal worker about it.

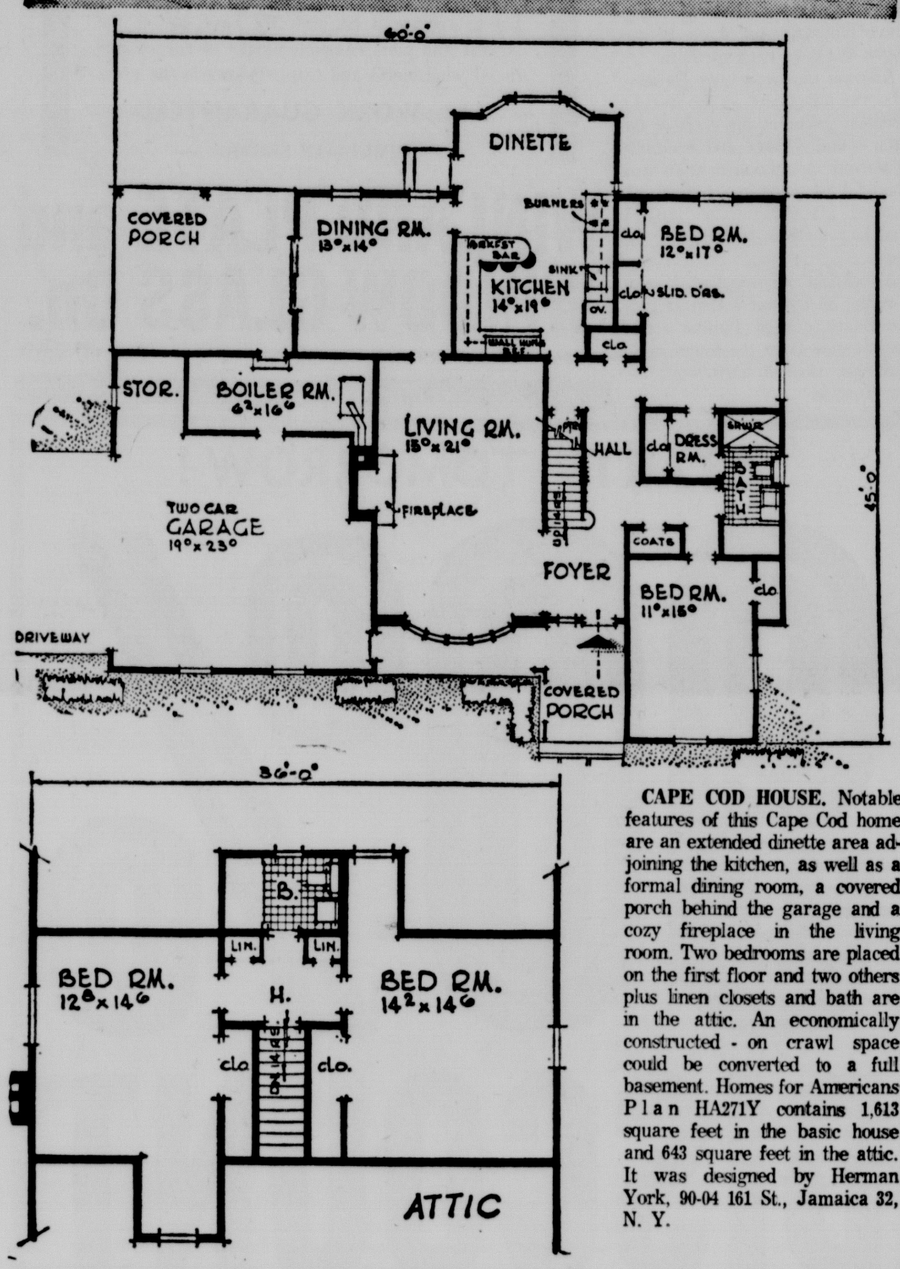
HERE'S A letter about a bumpy sloping ceiling:

"We are redecorating a bedroom that has a sloping ceiling that is so bumpty the wallpaper has cracked in many places. What can be put over it to conceal it?"

When a ceiling or wall gets beyond the cracked and blemished stage and bumps and gouges appear, nothing will give a smooth finish to it. You must tear it out. The job may be easier in the long run than fiddling around trying to find studs so that you can tack new material to it that will not go on smoothly anyway.

When you remove the cracked plaster from this slope, you may find some nice old beams. You could then finish the area between the beams with whatever materials you elect and then give the beams a rustic effect.

If the rest of the room is paneled, paint the beams white with a thin coat of lead paint; the wood will show through when the paint is rubbed with a cloth while wet. If the beams are hand-sewn and on the road to antiquity, you can finish them with a stain and wax.



CAPE COD HOUSE. Notable features of this Cape Cod home are an extended dinette area adjoining the kitchen, as well as a formal dining room, a covered porch behind the garage and a cozy fireplace in the living room. Two bedrooms are placed on the first floor and two others plus linen closets and bath are in the attic. An economically constructed - on crawl space could be converted to a full basement. Homes for Americans Plan HA271Y contains 1,613 square feet in the basic house and 643 square feet in the attic. It was designed by Herman York, 90-04 161 St., Jamaica 32, N. Y.

Board Will Help When Installing Kitchen Cabinet

Question: We have to put up some kitchen cabinets soon. The walls are plaster. I planned on using long screws, through the backs of the cabinets into the plaster and then into the studs.

I have been told that it is necessary to place some kind of heavy wooden board on the wall first, then hang the cabinets on the board, but the party who gave me the information wasn't sure why. It seems like extra work to put up the board first, then the cabinet. What is your advice?

Answer: You can attach the cabinet directly to the studs, without a board, but in most cases you'll find it a lot more work.

First of all, it's not easy to hold a cabinet in place while at the same time driving screws directly into the studs, even if you have help.

Secondly, doing it this way forces you to place the screws through the back of the cabinet at the exact points where the studs are located, not where you want the screws to be. On the other hand, attaching a board to the wall by driving screws into the studs is a comparatively simple matter.

Once the board is up, you can drive screws through the back of the cabinet into the board, placing the screws wherever you want without trying to line them up with studs.

Steel Expects Shipments To Rise Sharply

CLEVELAND (AP)—With Steelmakers primed for a substantial pickup in bookings, January is shaping up as the industry's best month for shipments since May, Steel Magazine said today.

Producers look for a sharp upturn in order entry within two weeks, the metalworking weekly said, and are counting on a last-minute influx of orders for March delivery. Currently, bookings are running a few percentage points ahead of last month's.

Steelmakers "expect March to be a month of heavy shipments," said the publication, "because of seasonal factors and accelerated inventory building by users who fear a strike.

"To date, inventory building has been negligible."

If top negotiators for steel labor and management seem to be making headway in their "non-bargaining" sessions in Pittsburgh, some buyers undoubtedly will delay hedging," Steel continued.

"They'll be strongly influenced by what automakers do," the magazine said, "and Detroit's not likely to gamble" on waiting until May 1 and build inventories in the 90-day bargaining period.

Steel looks for ingot production in the week ending Jan. 26 to be slightly higher than the 1,935,000 tons it estimates the industry poured last week.

City Firemen Aid Stricken Women

Two more resuscitator calls were answered early Sunday by city firemen, running to six the total of such emergency calls since Thursday.

Both calls yesterday morning were repeats of earlier trips to homes of women who became ill.

Firemen were called to the home of Mrs. Elizabeth Arbaugh, 1080 Bank St., at 2:25 a. m. yesterday after she experienced difficulty in breathing.

Oxygen was administered and the firemen remained until Mrs. Arbaugh was taken to City Hospital, where she is in "poor" condition today. Firemen also had administered oxygen to Mrs. Arbaugh early Thursday morning.

Notified by radio at 3:08 a. m., the department left Mrs. Arbaugh's home and went to the apartment of Mrs. Elizabeth Cowan, 315 Market St., where oxygen was given the 92-year-old woman for the second time in 24 hours. They also had been called to Mrs. Cowan's home early Saturday morning.

Blanket Insulation Termed Excellent And Economical

By DOUGLAS TUOMEY

There are many types of insulation available today, but, in my opinion, blanket insulation made of inorganic material and bound with moisture-proof covering is about the best for the average home owner.

The modern blanket insulation comes in rolls of exactly the proper width to fit between wall studs or the rafters of any house built according to correct building practices.

Both sides of the insulation have a flange which permits it to be stapled to the studs or rafters with speed and ease. Aside from the stapling tool, the only other equipment needed is a sharp scissors or a keen knife for cutting the roll to correct lengths.

Good blanket insulation is two inches thick and when stapled to the inner face of a stud or rafter leaves a two-inch air space between the inside face of the sheathing and the outside face of the blanket. This provides for the evaporation of any moisture which might accumulate on the sheathing and cause dampness.

Another good feature of blanket insulation is that it can be cut into small pieces which may be tucked around window or louvre frames, and so present a tight job against loss of heat or draft from the outside.

In other words, pieces of it can be used as caulking in odd corners or along the joint between attic floor and the sloping lower end of the roof.

Blanket insulation is made of many materials, but the most satisfactory of all is the material which is vermin-proof, non - absorbent and fireproof.

Before we knew as much about insulation as we know today, it was not unusual to find home owners using a material which was quite attractive to mice and insects, with the result that they bred in it and became a serious pest. Today's best insulation is insect repellent as well as mouse-proof.

Loafers In Kentucky Have Powerful Ally

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP) — Loafers around the old State Capitol have a powerful ally — Gov. Bert Combs.

He has ordered removal of a spiked strip of iron from the top of a new stone fence encircling the historic building in downtown Frankfort. And he also has directed construction of a flagstone patio and installation of benches.

An anti-loafer spokesman commented that some of the Old Capitol regulars had been sitting around the grounds for 50 years.

"So what?" said Combs. "Let them sit here another 50 years."

An 88-year-old man thanked the governor and said:

"Where some of us board, they won't let you stay in the house all day. We like to come here."

Older Homes Hold Many Problems

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

Now that outdoor activity is limited, many home owners take time out to brood indoors about their homes.

Everything is seen in a new light. Cracks in the ceiling are observed and even the bareness and sameness of floors get on one's nerves.

"We have some old beat - up floors in our upstairs rooms." writes one homemaker. "They are the brown-painted kind, old-fashioned and ugly. My husband says that it would be a big job to scrape them, and impossible to live with as the bedrooms are very tiny and it wouldn't be easy to move the furniture around as we worked. He doesn't think that colored paints would hold up on the floor, but I certainly think that whatever happened to them would be better than having our present floors which makes the rooms look dreary. . ."

There are some very good deck paints available in many colors that would be more cheerful than that old-time floor paint. Cardinal red is especially good when put over brown floors. If just one color is applied, the effect is antique-red.

There are other colors that may be selected. Floor colors may be mixed from the basic white to which oil paints are added as paint stores or painters can advise you. Many people like black floors. These can look chic even in the living room.

"WHEN WE brought our present home, I was so eager to get it I didn't notice the unsightly registers in the floor. There are three in the living room and my rugs are so large they would almost cover them completely. It means I must cut the rugs down, and we are also stuck with an unsightly look. Is there any solution to this problem?" writes a reader.

One thing that might save the situation is if the register grids are larger than needed as seems to be the case in many old homes. Lift the grids and size up the aperture. Measure it and then see if you can get a perforated plate that is just slightly larger than the aperture.

When you have determined that, size up the floor boards that would need to be inserged in the space that is left. Conventional boards that are laid random width could be laid easily by a do-it-yourselfer or professional carpenter.

If there are registers that do not seem to be giving heat, it's possible they could be eliminated completely. Many times registers were put in for one type of furnace, and then additional registers put in because heat was required in another area. Though they were shut off in the basement, the original ones were not removed from the floors.

I would not cut the rug until you have determined the area the registers would require. Many people who have wall-to-wall carpet move their registers from the floor to the wall. Ask your furnace man and a metal worker about it.

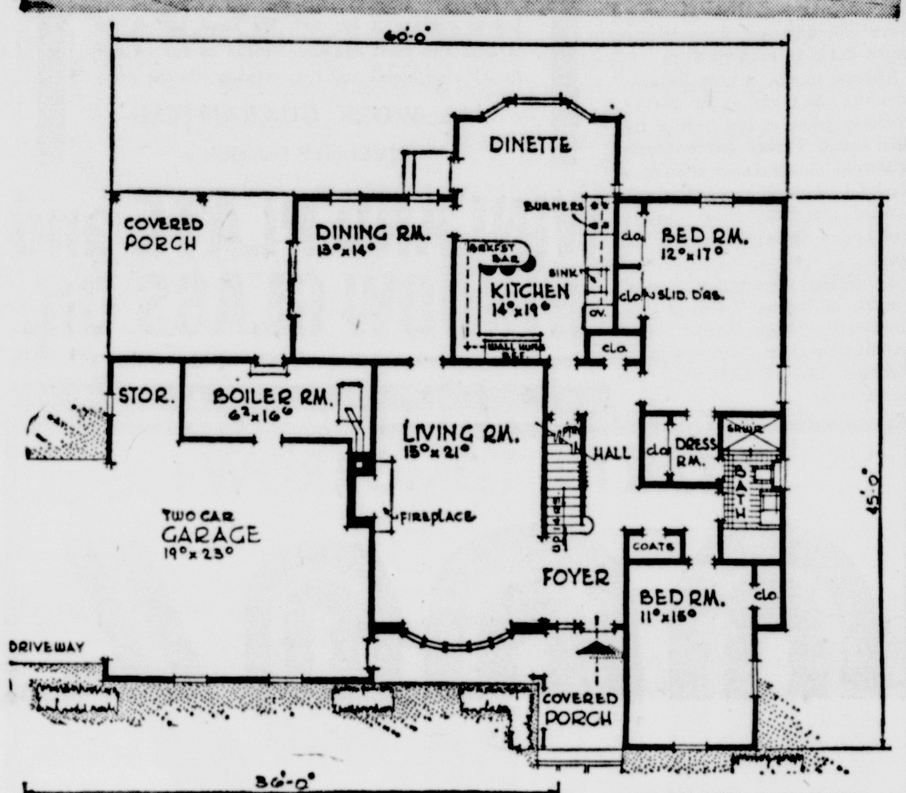
HERE'S A letter about a bumpy sloping ceiling:

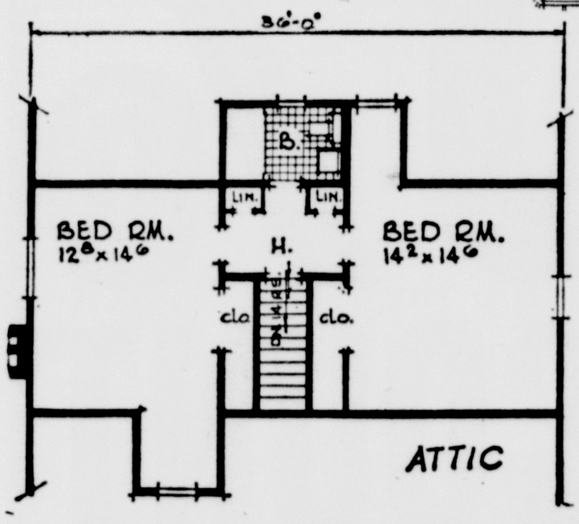
"We are redecorating a bedroom that has a sloping ceiling that is so bumpty the wallpaper has cracked in many places. What can be put over it to conceal it?"

When a ceiling or wall gets beyond the cracked and blemished stage and bumps and gouges appear, nothing will give a smooth finish to it. You must tear it out. The job may be easier in the long run than fiddling around trying to find studs so that you can tack new material to it that will not go on smoothly anyway.

When you remove the cracked plaster from this slope, you may find some nice old beams. You could then finish the area between the beams with whatever materials you elect and then give the beams a rustic effect.

If the rest of the room is paneled, paint the beams white with a thin coat of lead paint; the wood will show through when the paint is rubbed with a cloth while wet. If the beams are hand-sewn and on the road to antiquity, you can finish them with a stain and wax.





CAPE COD HOUSE. Notable features of this Cape Cod home are an extended dinette area adjoining the kitchen, as well as a formal dining room, a covered porch behind the garage and a cozy fireplace in the living room. Two bedrooms are placed on the first floor and two others plus linen closets and bath are in the attic. An economically constructed - on crawl space could be converted to a full basement. Homes for Americans Plan HA271Y contains 1,613 square feet in the basic house and 643 square feet in the attic. It was designed by Herman York, 90-04 161 St., Jamaica 32, N. Y.

Board Will Help When Installing Kitchen Cabinet

Question: We have to put up some kitchen cabinets soon. The walls are plaster. I planned on using long screws, through the backs of the cabinets into the plaster and then into the studs.

I have been told that it is necessary to place some kind of heavy wooden board on the wall first, then hang the cabinets on the board, but the party who gave me the information wasn't sure why. It seems like extra work to put up the board first, then the cabinet. What is your advice?

Answer: You can attach the cabinet directly to the studs, without a board, but in most cases you'll find it a lot more work.

First of all, it's not easy to hold a cabinet in place while at the same time driving screws directly into the studs, even if you have help.

Secondly, doing it this way forces you to place the screws through the back of the cabinet at the exact points where the studs are located, not where you want the screws to be. On the other hand, attaching a board to the wall by driving screws into the studs is a comparatively simple matter.

Once the board is up, you can drive screws through the back of the cabinet into the board, placing the screws wherever you want without trying to line them up with studs.

Steel Expects Shipments To Rise Sharply

CLEVELAND (AP)—With Steelmakers primed for a substantial pickup in bookings, January is shaping up as the industry's best month for shipments since May, Steel Magazine said today.

Producers look for a sharp upturn in order entry within two weeks, the metalworking weekly said, and are counting on a last-minute influx of orders for March delivery. Currently, bookings are running a few percentage points ahead of last month's.

Steelmakers "expect March to be a month of heavy shipments," said the publication, "because of seasonal factors and accelerated inventory building by users who fear a strike.

"To date, inventory building has been negligible."

If top negotiators for steel labor and management seem to be making headway in their "non-bargaining" sessions in Pittsburgh, some buyers undoubtedly will delay hedging," Steel continued.

"They'll be strongly influenced by what automakers do," the magazine said, "and Detroit's not likely to gamble" on waiting until May 1 and build inventories in the 90-day bargaining period.

Steel looks for ingot production in the week ending Jan. 26 to be slightly higher than the 1,935,000 tons it estimates the industry poured last week.

City Firemen Aid Stricken Women

Two more resuscitator calls were answered early Sunday by city firemen, running to six the total of such emergency calls since Thursday.

Both calls yesterday morning were repeats of earlier trips to homes of women who became ill.

Firemen were called to the home of Mrs. Elizabeth Arbaugh, 1080 Bank St., at 2:25 a. m. yesterday after she experienced difficulty in breathing.

Oxygen was administered and the firemen remained until Mrs. Arbaugh was taken to City Hospital, where she is in "poor" condition today. Firemen also had administered oxygen to Mrs. Arbaugh early Thursday morning.

Notified by radio at 3:08 a. m., the department left Mrs. Arbaugh's home and went to the apartment of Mrs. Elizabeth Cowan, 315 Market St., where oxygen was given the 92-year-old woman for the second time in 24 hours. They also had been called to Mrs. Cowan's home early Saturday morning.

Blanket Insulation Termed Excellent And Economical

By DOUGLAS TUOMEY

There are many types of insulation available today, but, in my opinion, blanket insulation made of inorganic material and bound with moisture-proof covering is about the best for the average home owner.

The modern blanket insulation comes in rolls of exactly the proper width to fit between wall studs or the rafters of any house built according to correct building practices.

Both sides of the insulation have a flange which permits it to be stapled to the studs or rafters with speed and ease. Aside from the stapling tool, the only other equipment needed is a sharp scissors or a keen knife for cutting the roll to correct lengths.

Good blanket insulation is two inches thick and when stapled to the inner face of a stud or rafter leaves a two-inch air space between the inside face of the sheathing and the outside face of the blanket. This provides for the evaporation of any moisture which might accumulate on the sheathing and cause dampness.

Another good feature of blanket insulation is that it can be cut into small pieces which may be tucked around window or louvre frames, and so present a tight job against loss of heat or draft from the outside.

In other words, pieces of it can be used as caulking in odd corners or along the joint between attic floor and the sloping lower end of the roof.

Blanket insulation is made of many materials, but the most satisfactory of all is the material which is vermin-proof, non - absorbent and fireproof.

Before we knew as much about insulation as we know today, it was not unusual to find home owners using a material which was quite attractive to mice and insects, with the result that they bred in it and became a serious pest. Today's best insulation is insect repellent as well as mouse-proof.

Rebounding from Friday's upset loss to Lowellville, powerful Crestview gained command in the second quarter and went on to romp over winless Salineville, 71-49, Saturday night before a large crowd at the Crestview gym.

Larry Athey, 6-3 freshman, enjoyed his most productive night of the season to lead the Rebels with 24 points. He had collected only five the night before in a narrow loss to Lowellville.

Big Jim Kress, 6-7 center for Crestview, couldn't find the target consistently from the pivot but still came through with 14 points. Teammate Alan Cobourn, 6-0 senior, added 13 points.

Crestview gained control of a 39-0 lead at halftime and stayed in front through the second two quarters in winning No. 9 against two defeats.

Salineville, loser of nine straight, battled the Rebels to a 13-13 first quarter tie but fell behind later and could never recover.

Glen Pitts led Coach Al Girone's Indians with 16 points, while McGuire had 10.

Crestview also bagged a victory in the reserve preliminary, 34-33, over Salineville.

Future Of Ernie Davis Up To Docs, Coach Says

CLEVELAND (AP)—The status of Ernie Davis, former Syracuse All-America halfback, with the Cleveland Browns next season "is strictly up to the doctors," says Blanton Collier, new coach of the professional football team.

An attack of leukemia sidelined Davis in his pro rookie season last year. Doctors pronounced him in condition to play in mid-season, but he was not activated.

Collier said in answer to another question that he was not aware of any dissension among the Browns' players last season.

Owner Arthur B. Modell gave player dissastisfaction as one of his reasons for firing Paul Brown, who had coached the Browns since the team was organized in 1946. Modell named Collier to succeed Brown last week.

Collier reiterated that he would let his quarterback call the plays, a major change from the Brown regime during which the plays were sent in from the bench.

Bill Schwarz, junior guard on Michigan State's basketball team, comes from Columbia City, Ind., but he was born in Transylvania, Romania.

Bulldogs Top Minerva Five In 63-50 Tilt

EAST PALESTINE — It is not always the big boys that go around setting records, 5-foot-8 Dave Watt can vouch for that.

The East Palestine whiz matched a school mark held by three other Bulldogs when he poured in 35 points to pace East Palestine in a 63-50 victory over Minerva here Saturday night.

Watt was at his best either driving several baskets or hitting from the outside. He fired in 11 field goals and was fouled numerous times on his driving style. Watt converted 13 of 18 charity attempts.

His 35-point effort matched the school record held by Jim Hartshorn who was the latest to tie the mark two seasons ago, Larry Knight and Jim Cline. Cline was the first to set the record.

East Palestine jumped out to a 10-5 lead and maintained the margin at halftime, 29-24. With Watt leading the attack, the Bulldogs drove into a 44-33 lead going into the final eight minutes.

The victory was the third in 11 games for Coach Chick McBride's team while the Tri-County slate reached 2-5.

Dave Simms and Clapper led Minerva's scoring with 15 points.

The Minerva reserves won, 48-31.

Wedge Shot By Casper Is Big Help

By P. D. ELDRED
Associated Press Sports Writer

PEBBLE BEACH, Calif. (AP)—A superb wedge shot, almost as spectacular as the 140-yard eagle which won him the 1958 Crosby championship, brought victory again to quick-hitting Billy Casper and sent him away from Pebble Beach today $5,300 richer in Bing's famed $50,000 golf show.

The tremendous wedge recovery shot from 75 yards out on the treacherous 18th hole along Pebble Beach's rockbound coast, laid Billy's ball a foot from the pin for a vital par 5. As it turned out the shot put decisive pressure on husky U.S. Open champion Jack Nicklaus and the determined little South African, Gary Player.

Nicklaus found himself with a 30-foot putt to win at the 18th, missed it and slid six feet past the cup. Usually deadly accurate from that distance, Nicklaus missed the six-footer, took a bogey 6 and finished in a second-place tie with Player, who missed a 12-foot putt he needed to tie Casper.

In grabbing first honors with a final 2-over-74 for a four-round total of 285, Casper earned the distinction of being the first pro ever to win the Crosby twice over the 72-hole route.

When the firing ended at the 18th, where Arnold Palmer capped a disastrous round by taking a horrible 9 after shooting into Monterey Bay, there were five players tied at 286 for second place—Nicklaus, Player, Bob Rosburg, Dave Hill and Art Wall. It was worth $2,145 to each of them.

All-time money winner Palmer, who was announced as the world's greatest golfer at the start of the final round Sunday and promptly reminded the announcer that "you should have seen me Saturday," learned after the finish Sunday just how disastrous Saturday had been.

A technical misinterpretation of a ruling on the par 3 17th at Pebble Beach caused Palmer's disqualification from the tournament and four days of hard work for the exercise.

Stanton Rallies But Falls Short

Stanton Local's late rush fell short by two points Saturday night at Mingo Junction when the Indians hung on for a 58-56 victory.

With 2:11 remaining in the contest, Coach Harry Diehl's team trailed by seven points but staged a rally that almost caught Mingo.

The defeat came despite another outstanding performance by Stanton's Scott Porter who poured in 23 points. This effort followed a 24-point contribution the night before against Jefferson Union.

The loss left Stanton with a 5-6 record while Mingo Junction has won its last four out of five and stands 4-6 for the season.

Dave Criss and Chester Potenzini combined for 42 points scoring 21 each to lead the Indians.

The contest was nip and tuck all the way with Mingo owning a mere 32-31 halftime edge and a 43-42 third period advantage.

Simmons' 20 High; Vikings Face Raiders

The Newell Vikings were assured of a winning record in their final season when they handed Beaver Local a 70-49 setback Saturday on the Beavers' floor.

Coach John Robison saw his team win its 11th game in 12 starts and with eight games remaining are certain of a winning campaign.

And guess who Newell's next opponent is, that's right New Cumberland, the only team to defeat the Vikings this season. The Blue Raiders with a 9-3 record invade Newell Tuesday night in what is billed as one of the top games in the district this week.

Newell, one of the best balanced clubs in the district this year showed four starters hitting in the double figures with Sam Simmons leading the way with 20. Tom Franczek and Rick Ferrell had 14 each while Jim Johnson hit the nets for 13.

While Newell continues as one of the winningest clubs in the district, Beaver Local dropped its ninth game and shows one victory this season.

Newell managed to step out in front, 20-10, at the first quarter pole then doubled that margin 36-14 at halftime. The Vikings continued to stay in complete command with a 53-32 third quarter advantage.

In defeat, George Gaydos, leading scorer for Coach Tom McCall's Beavers came through with a 17-point performance while sophomore standout Dennis Horger added 10.

The reserve game went to Beaver Local by a 39-36 margin.

Sebring stayed within striking distance in the first quarter as Lisbon struggled to a 13-8 edge. The Blue Devils picked up momentum in the second period and gained a 28-16 halftime advantage before moving in front, 45-27, after three quarters.

Ron Crosser, one of four starters in the twin figures, paved the way with 17 points while Craig Pannier added 13.

Rebels Post 9th Win

Crestview Freshman Star Scores 24 In 71-49 Win

Rebounding from Friday's upset loss to Lowellville, powerful Crestview gained command in the second quarter and went on to romp over winless Salineville, 71-49, Saturday night before a large crowd at the Crestview gym.

Larry Athey, 6-3 freshman, enjoyed his most productive night of the season to lead the Rebels with 24 points. He had collected only five the night before in a narrow loss to Lowellville.

Big Jim Kress, 6-7 center for Crestview, couldn't find the target consistently from the pivot but still came through with 14 points. Teammate Alan Cobourn, 6-0 senior, added 13 points.

Crestview gained control of a 39-0 lead at halftime and stayed in front through the second two quarters in winning No. 9 against two defeats.

Salineville, loser of nine straight, battled the Rebels to a 13-13 first quarter tie but fell behind later and could never recover.

Glen Pitts led Coach Al Girone's Indians with 16 points, while McGuire had 10.

Crestview also bagged a victory in the reserve preliminary, 34-33, over Salineville.

Future Of Ernie Davis Up To Docs, Coach Says

CLEVELAND (AP)—The status of Ernie Davis, former Syracuse All-America halfback, with the Cleveland Browns next season "is strictly up to the doctors," says Blanton Collier, new coach of the professional football team.

An attack of leukemia sidelined Davis in his pro rookie season last year. Doctors pronounced him in condition to play in mid-season, but he was not activated.

Collier said in answer to another question that he was not aware of any dissension among the Browns' players last season.

Owner Arthur B. Modell gave player dissastisfaction as one of his reasons for firing Paul Brown, who had coached the Browns since the team was organized in 1946. Modell named Collier to succeed Brown last week.

Collier reiterated that he would let his quarterback call the plays, a major change from the Brown regime during which the plays were sent in from the bench.

Bulldogs Top Minerva Five In 63-50 Tilt

EAST PALESTINE — It is not always the big boys that go around setting records, 5-foot-8 Dave Watt can vouch for that.

The East Palestine whiz matched a school mark held by three other Bulldogs when he poured in 35 points to pace East Palestine in a 63-50 victory over Minerva here Saturday night.

Watt was at his best either driving several baskets or hitting from the outside. He fired in 11 field goals and was fouled numerous times on his driving style. Watt converted 13 of 18 charity attempts.

His 35-point effort matched the school record held by Jim Hartshorn who was the latest to tie the mark two seasons ago, Larry Knight and Jim Cline. Cline was the first to set the record.

East Palestine jumped out to a 10-5 lead and maintained the margin at halftime, 29-24. With Watt leading the attack, the Bulldogs drove into a 44-33 lead going into the final eight minutes.

The victory was the third in 11 games for Coach Chick McBride's team while the Tri-County slate reached 2-5.

Dave Simms and Clapper led Minerva's scoring with 15 points.

The Minerva reserves won, 48-31.

Wedge Shot By Casper Is Big Help

By P. D. ELDRED
Associated Press Sports Writer

PEBBLE BEACH, Calif. (AP)—A superb wedge shot, almost as spectacular as the 140-yard eagle which won him the 1958 Crosby championship, brought victory again to quick-hitting Billy Casper and sent him away from Pebble Beach today $5,300 richer in Bing's famed $50,000 golf show.

The tremendous wedge recovery shot from 75 yards out on the treacherous 18th hole along Pebble Beach's rockbound coast, laid Billy's ball a foot from the pin for a vital par 5. As it turned out the shot put decisive pressure on husky U.S. Open champion Jack Nicklaus and the determined little South African, Gary Player.

Nicklaus found himself with a 30-foot putt to win at the 18th, missed it and slid six feet past the cup. Usually deadly accurate from that distance, Nicklaus missed the six-footer, took a bogey 6 and finished in a second-place tie with Player, who missed a 12-foot putt he needed to tie Casper.

In grabbing first honors with a final 2-over-74 for a four-round total of 285, Casper earned the distinction of being the first pro ever to win the Crosby twice over the 72-hole route.

When the firing ended at the 18th, where Arnold Palmer capped a disastrous round by taking a horrible 9 after shooting into Monterey Bay, there were five players tied at 286 for second place—Nicklaus, Player, Bob Rosburg, Dave Hill and Art Wall. It was worth $2,145 to each of them.

A technical misinterpretation of a ruling on the par 3 17th at Pebble Beach caused Palmer's disqualification from the tournament and four days of hard work for the exercise.

Cincinnati Still Untouched

OSU Staggers, Illinois Is New Class Of Big 10

By JIM HACKLEMAN
Associated Press Sports Writer

Take Cincinnati's mighty Bearcats and go on from there when evaluating the current college basketball season.

Cincinnati stands unchallenged as the nation's top club, has the upper hand in the tough Missouri Valley Conference, and appears capable of rolling to an unprecedented third straight national championship.

The Bearcats, with their 14-0 record and 32-game winning string, are running true to preseason prognostications.

Here is how the major conference pictures look:

Missouri Valley-Cincinnati took a big one Thursday, winning at Bradley after five straight losses there in as many seasons.

Big Ten—Illinois, 4-0 in the league and 12-1 over-all, seems the class this season but the challengers are many. Defending champion Ohio State, after a fast start, began to stagger and was whipped by Iowa Saturday 81-74.

Big Eight—Colorado is 4-0 and running ahead for its second title in a row.

Southeastern—Mississippi State, Auburn and Georgia Tech are 1-2-3 and have impressive over-all marks. It was Mississippi State 78-64 over Mississippi, Auburn 81-78 over Alabama in overtime and Georgia Tech 70-55 over non-conference Florida State Saturday. Tennessee trimmed Kentucky 78-69 in overtime, dropping Adolph Rupp's Wildcats into a tie for fourth.

Atlantic Coast—Duke and Wake Forest share the lead at 6-0, with North Carolina right behind at 5-1 after Saturday's 86-81 decision over Virginia.

Southern—Perennial power West Virginia shaded Virginia Tech 86-83 Saturday for an 8-0 conference record, putting the Mountaineers almost out of sight of the rest of the league.

Big Six—Stanford took firm control over the weekend by beating contender Washington twice, 57-48 and 58-49. The Indians' top competition probably will be UCLA and Southern California.

Western Athletic—Wyoming toppled nationally ranked Arizona State 88-81 Saturday, meaning the Sun Devils' are in for a battle in the new conference after all.

Southwest—Texas in front at 4-0 and Texas A&M next at 3-1, but this scramble almost inevitably goes down to the wire.

Middle Atlantic—LaSalle, St. Joseph's and Temple probably will fight it out, as expected. LaSalle beat Seton Hall 89-80 and Temple nipped Villanova 50-49 Saturday in non-conference games.

Ivy League—Penn was upset by Cornell 78-76 Friday but roared back Saturday, ripping Columbia 86-66 and holding onto the lead.

MacArthur Brings Quick NCAA-AAU Settlement

By BOB GREEN
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—The popular indoor winter track season geared to resume full activities today in the wake of an AAU-NCAA peace settlement negotiated by old soldier Gen. Douglas MacArthur.

"The real winners are the athletes," President John F. Kennedy said in Washington Sunday in congratulating the 82-year-old, five-star general for quick settlement of the 2½ year dispute which had threatened the 1964 U.S. Olympic team.

It was that threat which prompted the President to call on MacArthur to step into the squabble between the two groups, locked in a power struggle for control of amateur athletics.

The truce was hammered out in two days of closed door conferences in the general's suite in the Waldorf Towers. The windup was a nine-hour, no-break session Saturday.

The main points were spelled out in a statement by MacArthur to the rival delegates. They include:

1. Discrimination against the full use of available facilities and all athletes for scheduled athletic meets be lifted.

2. A six-man Olympic eligibility board, consisting of three members of the AAU and three from the NCAA-backed U.S. track and Field Federation, be set up to pass on Olympic candidates.

3. In case of disagreement, problems to be referred to General MacArthur.

4. A recommendation to the President that, if needed, after the 1964 Olympics, a meeting of sports officials and interested parties be called to work out a permanent solution for the conduct of American amateur sports.

5. The role of the new track federation be clearly defined as the governing body only for events covering athletes still in school. The AAU's position as official sanctioning agent for open meets and for international affairs remain unchanged.

Beaver Local Wrestlers In Narrow Escape, 19-17

Beaver Local's wrestlers remain undefeated but only by the skin of their teeth. For the second straight match Coach Jack O'Rourke's team was extended.

Last Thursday it was South Side which almost pulled an upset and Saturday the Beavers eked out a 19-17 victory at North Canton, marking their 10th straight triumph.

A pin by Gary Bookman (145), the only one of the match along with Ken Matheny's 3-0 decision in the heavyweight division kept Beaver Local on the unbeaten trail.

Both teams won five matches while another wound up in a draw but Bookman scored five points with his pin which came fast in 59 seconds.

Farnum Shasteen (112), Bill Tychoneivich (120), and Les McKenzie (127) all posted decisions for the Beavers.

Beaver Local will host Carrollton Tuesday at 7:30.

The results follow:

103 — Hughes (NC) decisioned Obney (BL) 5-3.

112 — Shasteen (BL) decisoned Harrison (NC) 3-0.

120 — Tychoneivich (BL) decisioned Owens (NC) 8-3.

127 — McKenzie (BL) decisioned Carle (NC) 4-2.

133 — Patterson (NC) decisioned Bradley (BL) 3-1.

138 — Mason (NC) decisioned Hoppel (BL) 6-0.

Today In History

By The Associated Press

Today is Monday, Jan. 21, the 21st day of 1963. There are 344 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this day in 1947, the World War II Army chief of staff, Gen. George Marshall, became U.S. secretary of state. Marshall replaced former U.S. Supreme Court Justice James Byrnes who resigned for reasons of health.

On this day:

In 1781, Congress named Thomas Barclay of Pennsylvania as vice consul, making him the first consular officer detailed for duty in the Department of Foreign Affairs, now the State Department.

In 1863, Union Gen. Fitz-John Porter was cashiered and dismissed for disobeying orders at the Second Battle of Bull Run. The charges subsequently were proved unfounded and he was reinstated in 1886.

In 1927, the U.S. government dispatched warships to Chinese ports to evacuate Americans.

In 1954, the world's first atomic submarine, the USS Nautilus, was launched at Groton, Conn.

In 1956, Indian Prime Minister Nehru's leadership was tested by rioting in Bombay.

Today's birthdays:

Television personality Jinx Falkenburg is 43. National Open golf champion Jack Nicklaus is 23.

Thought for today:

No race can prosper till it learns that there is as much dignity in tilling a field as in writing a poem—Booker T. Washington.

George Saimes, Michigan State's All-America fullback, gained 642 yards in 122 carries last season.

Truckers Strike Daniels Concern

WARREN, Ohio (AP)—A spokesman for Teamsters Local 377, which has struck the Daniels Motor Freight Terminal here, predicted that the strike would spread to all 33 Daniels terminals in 11 states.

However, the firm's director of labor relations, Arthur E. Nichols, said Sunday night the walkout was unauthorized and that he did not expect it to shut down other company terminals.

Nichols said the company was trying to work out a settlement to the dispute over Teamster demands for expanded use of turnpikes. The official said turnpikes are used on some trips over routes from the East Coast to the Mississippi River but that expanded use of the toll roads could result in a great increase in costs.

The union said the strike had been authorized a week ago by the Chicago office of the international.

Nichols said 350 drivers and warehousemen in the Warren-Youngstown area are affected by the strike.

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — H. Glenn Shepler, who operates a trucking company with headquarters in Zanesville, has been accused in U.S. District Court here of violating federal wage - hour laws.

The U.S. Labor Department, seeking an injunction to enjoin Shepler from further violations, claims he owes 11 employes about $1,050 for time they worked in excess of 40 hours a week.

Shepler also is accused of violating record-keeping provisions in the wage-hour laws.

His trucks are used to haul coal and other products in interstate commerce, the department's petition said.

Cincinnati Still Untouched

OSU Staggers, Illinois Is New Class Of Big 10

By JIM HACKLEMAN
Associated Press Sports Writer

Take Cincinnati's mighty Bearcats and go on from there when evaluating the current college basketball season.

Cincinnati stands unchallenged as the nation's top club, has the upper hand in the tough Missouri Valley Conference, and appears capable of rolling to an unprecedented third straight national championship.

The Bearcats, with their 14-0 record and 32-game winning string, are running true to preseason prognostications.

Here is how the major conference pictures look:

Missouri Valley-Cincinnati took a big one Thursday, winning at Bradley after five straight losses there in as many seasons.

Big Ten—Illinois, 4-0 in the league and 12-1 over-all, seems the class this season but the challengers are many. Defending champion Ohio State, after a fast start, began to stagger and was whipped by Iowa Saturday 81-74.

Big Eight—Colorado is 4-0 and running ahead for its second title in a row.

Southeastern—Mississippi State, Auburn and Georgia Tech are 1-2-3 and have impressive over-all marks. It was Mississippi State 78-64 over Mississippi, Auburn 81-78 over Alabama in overtime and Georgia Tech 70-55 over non-conference Florida State Saturday. Tennessee trimmed Kentucky 78-69 in overtime, dropping Adolph Rupp's Wildcats into a tie for fourth.

Atlantic Coast—Duke and Wake Forest share the lead at 6-0, with North Carolina right behind at 5-1 after Saturday's 86-81 decision over Virginia.

Southern—Perennial power West Virginia shaded Virginia Tech 86-83 Saturday for an 8-0 conference record, putting the Mountaineers almost out of sight of the rest of the league.

Big Six—Stanford took firm control over the weekend by beating contender Washington twice, 57-48 and 58-49. The Indians' top competition probably will be UCLA and Southern California.

Western Athletic—Wyoming toppled nationally ranked Arizona State 88-81 Saturday, meaning the Sun Devils' are in for a battle in the new conference after all.

Southwest—Texas in front at 4-0 and Texas A&M next at 3-1, but this scramble almost inevitably goes down to the wire.

Middle Atlantic—LaSalle, St. Joseph's and Temple probably will fight it out, as expected. LaSalle beat Seton Hall 89-80 and Temple nipped Villanova 50-49 Saturday in non-conference games.

Ivy League—Penn was upset by Cornell 78-76 Friday but roared back Saturday, ripping Columbia 86-66 and holding onto the lead.

MacArthur Brings Quick NCAA-AAU Settlement

By BOB GREEN
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—The popular indoor winter track season geared to resume full activities today in the wake of an AAU-NCAA peace settlement negotiated by old soldier Gen. Douglas MacArthur.

"The real winners are the athletes," President John F. Kennedy said in Washington Sunday in congratulating the 82-year-old, five-star general for quick settlement of the 2½ year dispute which had threatened the 1964 U.S. Olympic team.

It was that threat which prompted the President to call on MacArthur to step into the squabble between the two groups, locked in a power struggle for control of amateur athletics.

The truce was hammered out in two days of closed door conferences in the general's suite in the Waldorf Towers. The windup was a nine-hour, no-break session Saturday.

The main points were spelled out in a statement by MacArthur to the rival delegates. They include:

1. Discrimination against the full use of available facilities and all athletes for scheduled athletic meets be lifted.

2. A six-man Olympic eligibility board, consisting of three members of the AAU and three from the NCAA-backed U.S. track and Field Federation, be set up to pass on Olympic candidates.

3. In case of disagreement, problems to be referred to General MacArthur.

4. A recommendation to the President that, if needed, after the 1964 Olympics, a meeting of sports officials and interested parties be called to work out a permanent solution for the conduct of American amateur sports.

5. The role of the new track federation be clearly defined as the governing body only for events covering athletes still in school. The AAU's position as official sanctioning agent for open meets and for international affairs remain unchanged.

Beaver Local Wrestlers In Narrow Escape, 19-17

Beaver Local's wrestlers remain undefeated but only by the skin of their teeth. For the second straight match Coach Jack O'Rourke's team was extended.

Last Thursday it was South Side which almost pulled an upset and Saturday the Beavers eked out a 19-17 victory at North Canton, marking their 10th straight triumph.

A pin by Gary Bookman (145), the only one of the match along with Ken Matheny's 3-0 decision in the heavyweight division kept Beaver Local on the unbeaten trail.

Both teams won five matches while another wound up in a draw but Bookman scored five points with his pin which came fast in 59 seconds.

Farnum Shasteen (112), Bill Tychoneivich (120), and Les McKenzie (127) all posted decisions for the Beavers.

Beaver Local will host Carrollton Tuesday at 7:30.

The results follow:

103 — Hughes (NC) decisioned Obney (BL) 5-3.

112 — Shasteen (BL) decisoned Harrison (NC) 3-0.

120 — Tychoneivich (BL) decisioned Owens (NC) 8-3.

127 — McKenzie (BL) decisioned Carle (NC) 4-2.

133 — Patterson (NC) decisioned Bradley (BL) 3-1.

Truckers Strike Daniels Concern

WARREN, Ohio (AP)—A spokesman for Teamsters Local 377, which has struck the Daniels Motor Freight Terminal here, predicted that the strike would spread to all 33 Daniels terminals in 11 states.

However, the firm's director of labor relations, Arthur E. Nichols, said Sunday night the walkout was unauthorized and that he did not expect it to shut down other company terminals.

Nichols said the company was trying to work out a settlement to the dispute over Teamster demands for expanded use of turnpikes. The official said turnpikes are used on some trips over routes from the East Coast to the Mississippi River but that expanded use of the toll roads could result in a great increase in costs.

The union said the strike had been authorized a week ago by the Chicago office of the international.

Junior Editors Quiz on ESKIMOS

QUESTION: Why don't igloos melt or cave in when Eskimos build fires inside?

★ ★ ★

ANSWER: To make an igloo, an Eskimo slices snow with a long bone knife. He makes blocks which are slightly curved so they will fit in a circle. He sets up a ring of these and shaves them to start low and get higher toward the highest part of the last block in the circle. Then, working from inside, he sets other blocks on top of the ring, so they keep spiralling around and lean in toward each other. He leaves an opening in the top and fills it with a special "king piece" block, wider at top than bottom. Cracks are packed with snow. Then the Eskimo wife uses her blubber lamp outside to seal up the igloo. The snow begins to melt but the curved form prevents it dripping. Gradually the blocks get wet through. Then the woman removes her lamp and opens the entrance. Cold air rushes in and soon the wet blocks have frozen into solid ice. Now the igloo is very strong and the intense cold outside will keep it so. The Eskimos build an entrance with a pit. Cold air doesn't rise, so the cold air stays down in the pit while the igloo is comfortably heated with the blubber lamp. Only a small amount of fire from the lamp is needed, so the walls don't melt.

★ ★ ★

How Can I?

By ANNE ASHLEY

Q. How can I remove rust spots from ceramic tile floors?

A. Dissolve one part of sodium citrate with six parts of commercial glycerin. Add water to thin the mixture, then mix with sufficient whiting to form a paste. Spread this over the rust spots in a thick coating, scrub, and then rinse off.

Q. Is there any way I can repair a cracked asphalt roof shingle?

A. You can repair it right on the roof by filling the break with asphalt cement. If the crack is at a point where the shingle can be lifted a bit, put some cement under the crack as well as on it.

Q. How can I remove rubber cement stains from fabrics?

A. Sponge the stains with carbon tetrachloride, gasoline, or benzine, or dip the stain into it. If the cement has dried, rub petroleum jelly into the stain to loosen it, then sponge with one of the aforementioned solvents; or rub it first with dry-cleaning soap.
